FIRST EDITION.

CAMPAIGN IN OHIO.

Unprecedented Republican Demonstration at Salem

Vigorous Speech by Hon. Ben. Wade.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

SALEM, OHIO, September 24, 1872.

The Republicans of this county met in mass meeting to-day, with quite large delegations from Stork and Mahoning counties. They formed in procession and moved through the principal streets of the city, making a grand demonstration. It is claimed as the largest mass meeting ever held in Salem. After proceeding through the streets the delegations repaired to a grove, south of town, where Hon. B. F. Wade made one of his usual vigorous speeches. It being his first speech it was looked forward to with more than ordinary interest. He entered into a spirited defence of the Republican party, and Gen. Grant's administration, referring to the action of the former, and extolling the executive ability of the latter. This evening there is a large procession of bands of music and tanner clubs of Salem and surrounding places, to be followed by speeches.

Great Meeting at Bellefontaine To-Day—A Straw.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

BELLEFONTAINE, OHIO, September 24, 1872.

A vote taken in the crowd assembled at the depot to get a glimpse of the illustrious Horace, who passed through this city this evening, resulted in forty-seven for Grant, twenty-seven for Greeley. Greeley spoke about ten minutes.

Great preparations have been made for the Republican mass meeting to be held here to-morrow. An elegant banner will be presented to the largest delegation from abroad. It is expected this will be the greatest meeting ever held in this county. Hon. C. Delano, Gen. Garfield, Hon. Wm. Lawrence and others will speak.

Horace En Route Home.

URBANA, OHIO, September 24, 1872.

Horace Greeley passed through this city en route for Cleveland, about one o'clock this afternoon. A crowd of perhaps one thousand gathered at the depot. He made a speech of about five minutes' duration, at the conclusion of which three cheers for Greeley were given. Gen. Young, of Urbana, introduced Gov. Randolph, of New Jersey, who addressed the crowd as follows:

Ladies and Gentlemen—Were I to attempt to make a speech. [Here the train moved off.] You see what would be the end of it. God bless you all, and vote for Horace Greeley.

ARMSTRONG COUNTY.

Large Grant Meeting at Apollo.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

APOLLO, PA., September 24, 1872.

There was a large Grant meeting held here last night. The Wide Awakes were out, on foot and mounted, and nearly one thousand people assembled to hear speeches by Gov. Noyes, of Ohio, Colonel Lemuel C. Reeves, of New Jersey, and Dr. Allen, of Philadelphia. Armstrong is good for five hundred for the State ticket.

Drug Store Burglarized—Thrown from a Train.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

URBANA, O., September 24, 1872.

The drug store of Kauffman & Nelson was entered by burglars last night. They secured a small amount of currency left in the money drawers, but nothing else of value.

Johanna Odry, a colored woman, from Bellefontaine, in boarding the evening train last night for that place, was thrown from the train by a sudden jerk injuring her severely but not seriously. She was unable to proceed on her journey.

Machinists' and Blacksmiths' Convention.

ALBANY, N. Y., September 24.—At the National Convention of machinists and blacksmiths in this city to-day the following resolution was adopted:

"Resolved, That some means be taken to secure the promotion of our members, so that all may have an opportunity of full and thorough theoretical and practical knowledge of our profession, and thereby raise the standard of intelligence among our brethren to insure greater proficiency in every branch of the profession."

NEWS SUMMARY.

BY TELEGRAPH.

At Chicago, Monday night, James McWilliams and M. A. Moore, two compositors employed in the Times office, were walking along the street, when their attention was attracted by one of four men sitting on a fense in front of a house falling backward off the fence. The young men crossed the street to ascertain the trouble, and after exchanging a few words with the four men, started on their way. They had only gone a few steps when one of the men drew a pistol and fired at them, the shot taking effect in McWilliams's head. He never spoke afterwards, and died in a few minutes. The assassin and companions ran off, and up to an early hour Tuesday morning had escaped identification or arrest.

It has transpired that G. H. Goodspeed, the young man who was fleeced out of $3,000 by gamblers in Chicago, last Saturday night, is Henry Sloan, late confidential clerk in a Hartford, Conn., bank, and that he robbed the institution of $5,000 and started for California. He has been arrested and is now in custody awaiting a requisition from the Governor of Connecticut.

The vessels Thuringia and Hamburg have arrived at New York.

It is said that Johnson, the defaulting Sub-Treasury clerk, probably took the late steamer for Europe. His wife is said to be in a destitute state and sick.

Thomas Collins, twenty years of age, has been arrested as the person who shot and killed McWilliams, a printer, in Chicago, Monday night. Five others, who were with him at the time, have been arrested as accomplices.

STATE POLITICS.

The Allentown Chronicle says: Week after next, when Horace Greeley is at Kutztown, the Kutztown fair will be pretty well attended. It seems perfectly natural, though it is rather strange, that there are hundreds of Democrats within five and ten miles of Kutztown borough who will not attend to get a look at their candidate so great is their indifference. The Democrats in this part of Pennsylvania are just beginning to realize the deep humiliation of having been sold out by their leaders.

Hon. E. Joy Morris has accepted the nomination of the opponents of Hon. Charles O'Neill in the Second Congressional district.

The editor of the Emlinton Friend, neutral politically, went to hear Buckalew speak, and gives his impressions of the Democratic orator as follows: "He is gifted with a very easy style of address, but we rather detest his style of self-praise. We had hoped to hear him give an unbiased history of State politics, that is as far as a political speaker is capable of in speaking of his political opponents, but we either expected too much or were not capable of passing a fair judgment. If he had confined himself to general issues his address would have met our approval, but as it is he had too much self-commendation stirred in to suit our taste."

The Democrats of Montgomery and Lehigh counties held a convention at Allentown on Saturday, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Congress. The Montgomery delegation was "set up" in the interests of Dr. Acker, and the Lehigh people were divided. Over twenty ballots were taken without a nomination, but the Chronicle says Acker will eventually carry the day.

The Harrisburg Patriot having announced that Hon. Samuel Lin, late President Judge of the Centre district, had declared for Mr. Buckalew, that gentleman telegraphs to a friend denying the story. He is for the Republican nominees straight out.

The Straight out Democrats of Philadelphia held meetings on Saturday and last evening for the purpose of selecting candidates for elector and delegates to the Constitutional Convention. Albert R. Schofield was appointed Senatorial and George Mountjoy Representative delegate from the Eleventh district, and John K. Chadwick from the Thirteenth. F. M. Bingham was chosen for elector.

THE daughter of a wealthy farmer in Genesee county, Mich., became enamored of a young man named Tarbull, and after a short acquaintance a matrimonial engagement was entered into. The girl's parents, however, refused to consent to the match, not considering a girl of sixteen old enough for the responsibilities of married life. This was a sad blow, of course, to the young folks, and they planned an elopement. Nellie packed up her best garments, took $480 of the old man's greenbacks, and straightway went to Detroit, leaving a note stating that she would return whenever her parents made up their minds to forgive her George. A few days later the old gentleman received a letter from his Nellie stating that Tarbull had brought her to Detroit, but did not marry her as he agreed. He succeeded in getting the $480, and left her to get home as best she might. Where he went to she did not know. The father immediately went to Detroit, anxious to reclaim his daughter and take her home. Tarbull had better keep out of his way, though; the old man has got on his war paint, and will take the scalp of the young scoundrel if he succeeds in coming up with him.

The editor of a Western paper announces that he will furnish his paper free to the wife of any worthless or drunken husband. This is a clear premium on dissipation and worthlessness.

EUROPE.

BY THE ATLANTIC CABLE.

Funeral Obsequies of the King of Sweden.

STOCKHOLM, September 24.—The remains of the late King Charles XV. were brought to Stockholm to-day, and taken in solemn procession through the streets, receiving every mark of respect and sorrow from the inhabitants.

Miscellaneous Dispatches.

LONDON, September 24.—The weather throughout England is tempestuous. Some damage has been done to shipping on the coast.

The advance in the price of coal has caused an increase in the expense of running the Lancashire cotton mills to such an extent that it has been decided to reduce the number of hours of labor.

PARIS, September 24.—The Figaro says that Djemil Meheined Pasha, Turkish ambassador to France, died on the railroad train while going from this city to Limburg, Austria.

PARIS, September 24.—Charles Sumner arrived last night.

General Manteuffel, commander of the German troops now in France, and the French authorities have agreed that the evacuation of the departments of Marne and Haute Marne shall begin on the 15th of October.

PARIS, September 24.—Mr. Washburne, Minister of the United States, and Admiral Alden, of the American Navy, dined with Thiers to-day.

Count von Arnim, German Minister, will return to Paris on Thursday, after a brief absence in Germany. The Spener Gazette, of Berlin, positively denies that he has tendered his resignation of the ambassadorship.

Thiers has now under consideration a recommendation of the Councils General in regard to the proposed constitutional reforms. He has also given his attention to the elaborate reports which he has received from French representatives abroad as to the working of constitutional government in various foreign countries. On these materials he will base his proposals to the Assembly for the appointment of Vice President of the Republic, the creation of an upper chamber and a new electoral law.

The Secretary of a coal mining company in Pas de Calais, denies that contracts have been made in France for the exportation of coal to England.

BOMBAY, September 24.—Cyclones in Eastern Bengal are reported to have done great damage to the jute crop.

VIENNA, September 24.—The Austrian Red Book has just appeared. It contains sixty-nine documents. The most noteworthy are Andrassy's diplomatic circular on assuming his present office, and replies of Austrian representatives, showing the confidence which his appointment inspired abroad. There are interesting dispatches also, on rights of private property at sea in time of war, and on the labor question in England.

PESTH, September 24.—The Financial Committee of the Reichstag is busily engaged with the annual budget of the Minister of War.

GENEVA, September 24.—The removal of the Catholic priest Mermillod here by the Swiss government causes some excitement. His Bishop resists the right of the secular power to remove a clergyman and maintains his allegiance to the Pope as superior to all human laws.

Marine News.

LONDON, September 24.—The City of Bristol, Corinthian, and Scandinavian have arrived out.

Great Republican Demonstration at Knightstown, Indiana.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

KNIGHTSTOWN, IND., September 24, 1872.

The Republican demonstration at this place today was in numbers and enthusiasm ahead of anything ever held here. A procession was formed fifteen squares in length and marched to the fair grounds, where they were addressed by Gov. J. B. Hawley, Gen. Lew Wallace and Judge Taylor. The addresses were received with the greatest enthusiasm.

Illinois Congressional Nominations.

CHICAGO, September 24.—Republican Congressional conventions were held here to-day for the First and Second districts, and at Waukegan for the Third district. In the First district, Hon. J. B. Rice was nominated by acclamation; in the Second, J. D. Ward, on first ballot; and in the Third, Hon. B. Farwell, by acclamation.

General B. F. Butler addressed a very large and enthusiastic Republican meeting at the West Side rink this evening.

Republican Meeting at Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., September 24.—General John A. Logan, of Illinois, and Hon. John M. Langston, the distinguished colored orator of Washington city, addressed a large Republican meeting at the Wigwam in this city to-night.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, September 24, 1872.

ALLEGED FORGERY.

In the Court of General Sessions to-day Thomas Cunningham was on trial, charged with having, by means of forged orders, defrauded the Treasury of the State of Mississippi out of thousands of dollars. He was remitted till Friday.

THE COMMITTEE OF SEVENTY.

At a meeting of the Committee of Seventy, held to-day, it was decided to continue the committee, and as at present constituted. No general plan of campaign for the coming elections was adopted, but it was the general opinion of members present that the question of the national canvass should not be allowed to interfere with local politics.

NATIONAL BOARD OF TRADE.

The next meeting of the National Board of Trade will be held here October 15. Delegates from all mercantile bodies in the United States will be present.

THE PRESIDENT IN THE CITY.

President Grant arrived in this city from Long Branch to-day, and after visiting the Republican headquarters started for Washington this afternoon.

NATIONAL COUNCIL OF AMERICAN MECHANICS.

At the Afternoon session of the National Council of American Mechanics reports were made from various State Councils, which showed them to be in a prosperous condition. The special committee in charge of the report of the National Secretary recommended that the action of that officer during the year be approved.

County Fairs in Ohio.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

CANTON, O., September 24, 1872.

The twenty-third annual fair of the Stark County Agricultural Societies commenced here to-day, to continue four days. The entries of all departments equal that of any previous year. A good list of premiums is offered throughout, especially for the races, which come off each day. Weston walks a fifty mile walk either on the third or fourth day.

Special to the Pittsburgh Commercial.

URBANA, OHIO, September 24, 1872.

The Champaign county fair opened to-day with great promises of its being a success. A large number of entries were made. It will equal, if not more than equal, those of former years.

Special Dispatch to Commercial.

GREENVILLE, O., September 24, 1872.

The seventeenth annual fair of the Dark county Agricultural Association, commenced here to-day under the most favorable circumstances. Every department is full, and the display of stock fine. It is said to be the best ever held here.

An Odd Fellow's Funeral.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

UNION CITY, IND., September 24, 1872.

James McFeeley, an old and highly esteemed citizen and prominent Odd Fellow, of this place, was buried here to-day by the order, the fraternity turning out in large numbers.

BUCKALEW AND THE MINERS

Mr. Winder's Reply to the Pittsburgh Post.

SAW MILL RUN, September 23, 1872.

To the Editor of the Pittsburgh Commercial:

My letter entitled "A Miner's Appeal," published in the COMMERCIAL of the 14th inst., brought out an editorial in the Post of the 16th inst., in which it says I have "permitted my name to be signed" to an article in one of the morning papers. Now I ask the editor of the Post, does he suppose that the miners are so ignorant that they cannot write a letter showing the record of one who was their unmasked enemy in 1871, and who, in my opinion, would be the same in 1872, if he did not need their suffrages to assist him this coming October election to the chair now occupied by His Excellency John W. Geary?

I am so well known to the miners of Allegheny county, that I feel certain two-thirds of them will not question my ability to write, or my veracity in what is written in the letter. But the authorship of the letter is not the question. The fact that it has been written ought to be sufficient evidence to the Post that the Democratic miners will want it answered with argument, and not by casting a doubt on the ability of the writer. I would also advise them to confine themselves to arguments in answering the letter, and not stoop to the personalities and manifest falsehoods which the article contains. The latter method may show their proficiency in Billingsgate, but it will certainly fail to convince the miners.

The article further says that, on my invitation, Mr. Buckalew stayed one day longer in Pittsburgh than he had intended to stay, for the purpose of having an interview with the miners' committee, of which, he says, I was chairman. To the above I give an unqualified denial. I never sent a written or verbal message desiring an interview, nor did I ever receive an invitation from Mr. Buckalew, or from any other person, to that effect.

The duties of the committee of which I was a member ended December 30th, 1871, when we made our report to a meeting of delegates held on that date.

The charge of my being a political trickster, or "in the hands of political tricksters," I declare to be a base and cowardly supposition.

I will give the following information to the Post, "free gratis," which it sadly needs, judging from what the paper contains: That the miners have the intelligence and the determination to both think and act for themselves, without the aid of politicians. I should very much like if the Post would take up the letter and publish the points wherein I misrepresent Mr. Buckalew, and if I have misrepresented Mr. Buckalew I will gladly make the amende honorable.

How to Get Him Home Quickest, and Keep Him There,

The Conundrum of the Hour.

His Indorsement of the Credit Mobilier Slander,

Recalls His Own Connection With a Most Stupendous Subsidy Scheme.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

WASHINGTON, D. C., September 24, 1872.

The Greeley managers here have news of a very lively time in the New York commitee, when Mr. Greeley gave the members to understand he was going west. It now appears that the question was debated with much bitterness, and that nearly all of Mr. Greeley's personal friends who are attempting to manage the campaign for him, were earnest and most decided in their opposition to the western trip. On the other hand it was a matter of comment among this class of opponents to the scheme that those who made themselves most prominent in urging Greeley to make the journey were men who of late have been suspected of secretly desiring Mr. Greeley's defeat. To the latter class Greeley listened, and in spite of all that the others could do, he declared that he would go, and intimated that he knew as much about what was good policy and proper management in the campaign as any one could tell him. His idea of the trip seemed to be that he would, through the medium of the Associated Press, which would, of course, be open to him, explain not only to his admirers but to the entire country, some matters that as now before the country were an injury to his prospects, and two principal matters in his mind to be smoothed over were his early secession ideas and his views in regard to currency and specie payment, which were doing him much damage among business men. His attack on the soldiers in Pittsburgh is regarded among his chief managers in New York as thus far the greatest misfortune of the campaign, and the attempt at Cincinnati to explain his views about secession as little better. One of Mr. Greeley's reasons for ignoring the advice of those on committee, and among his friends who insisted that he should not go West, was that he followed their commands and came out of Maine and out of New England much sooner than he desired, and he now feels that if he had been permitted to go over that State more thoroughly the result would have been much more favorable to his cause. The great problem among his shrewdest friends in New York is how to get him home quickest and keep him there and keep him still the longest. It is understood there was only one of a majority in the New York committee in favor of Mr. Greeley's trip.

Greeley Retails a Slander.

Mr. Greeley's indorsement of the Credit Mobilier slander, in his Indianapolis speech, has recalled here this evening his own connection with one of the most extensive subsidy schemes ever pressed upon Congress. It was known as the Mediterranean and Oriental Steam Navigation Company of New York, and was incorporated by that State, and sought the charter and subsidies of bonds, lands and contracts, from Congress, in 1869. Mr. Greeley was one of the corporators, a Commissioner, and earnest supporter of the scheme. The charter provided for no private capital, but carpet-bag Legislatures of Southern States are authorized to vote bonds, the principal and interest of which were to be guaranted by the United States, and the government was to give the company forty acres of good land, or one hundred and sixty acres of swamp land, for every emigrant the company should contract to bring to this country, and the terms of the charter made it possible to obtain land without actually bringing over any of those contracted with. The President was instructed by charter to give the company lands at their ports, the Secretary of the navy was directed to sell them ships, and the Postmaster General was directed to contract for carrying the mails. Nothing was left to the discretion of these several executive officers, but they were each instructed and directed to further the objects of the job as set forth in the proposed charter. Numerous attempts were made from New York to force action upon Congress, but the scheme fell by its own rottenness.

Stonewall Greeley Club.

A new Liberal club has just been organized in Richmond, Va., under the title of the Stonewall Greeley Club.

Proceedings of Soldiers' Convention.

The National Republican Committee are preparing a document containing the proceedings and resolutions of the Pittsburgh Soldiers' Convention, and Mr. Greeley's speech at Pittsburgh. It will be ready for distribution the last of this week.

Invited to Baltimore.

Both branches of the Baltimore City Council have voted to invite Mr. Greeley to visit that city next month, in a non-partisan character.

WASHINGTON, D. C., September 24, 1872.

WAGES UNDER THE EIGHT HOUR LAW.

The Fourth Auditor of the Treasury is now busily engaged in making preparations to pay navy employees the amount due them for the reduction of their wages under the eight hour law. About 40,000 persons will come in for allowance under the law of May 8th.

THE PERSECUTION OF ISRAELITES.

It appears from correspondence just published that American Minister Washburne on the 9th of August, communicated to the French Minister of Foreign Affairs an expression of the desire of our government that France take such action as would put an end to the persecution of the Israelites in Roumania. M. de Remusat replied, August 30, that "the French Consul General in several instances acted with the American Consul General in making necessary representations to the Roumanian government. We have never neglected to make to the Consul at Bucharest observations urging justice and humanity, and we have obtained assurances for the future which respond to our wishes, and when occasion presents itself we shall insist that equal protection be accorded in Roumania to residents of all creeds."

FROM MEXICO.

United States Minister Nelson Vindicated—Santa Anna Again a Disturbing Element.

CITY MEXICO, September 16—via HAVANA, September 23.—The authorities have released Thiele, who was confined in Chapos. Thiele is not an American, but a naturalized Mexican, and was engaged in the Porfirio Diaz revolution. Nelson, United States Minister, in investigating the case of Thiele, demanded proof of his American citizenship, but none was furnished. Reports that minister Nelson had neglected the cases of several Americans who were in trouble are pronounced untrue. The parties concerning whom these charges are made are generally adventurers, and proved to be unentitled to American citizenship. Nelson has recovered from his recent illness, and is now engaged in arranging the affairs of the mixed commission, with likelihood of success. He soon leaves for the United States with the remains of his wife, which will be taken to Indiana for final interment. Skilton has entered upon his duties as Consul General of the United States in Mexico.

The negotiations for submission of General Diaz continue, and are likely to succeed. Two new journals will shortly be published, which will support Santa Anna as a candidate for the Presidency of Mexico.

THE OIL REGIONS.

Ten Barrel Well on Dry Run, Beaver County.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

SMITH'S FERRY, September 24, 1872.

Davidson & Johnson have struck oil on Dry Run, in Beaver county. It is now pumping ten barrels, and increasing.

Revival of the Movement to Check Production.

TITUSVILLE, PA., September 24.—The movement toward shutting down wells and the suspension of drilling, so as to decrease the production of petroleum, which was agitated some weeks ago and proved unsuccessful, has been evived. Meetings being held, resolutions were passed and organizations formed to this end. It is thought it will be successful. The production has reached over 18,000 barrels per day, and is increasing. This excess has caused prices to decline so low that producing is unprofitable, and to increase the prices this movement is made. A large number of producing wells are already shut down.

THE WEATHER.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE CHIEF SIGNAL OFFICER,
WASHINGTON, D. C., September 24, 1872, 7 P. M.

PROBABILITIES.

For New England on Wednesday southeasterly and southerly winds and cloudy weather, with rain by or on Wednesday night; for the Middle States southeasterly and southerly winds, cloudy weather and raw; for South Atlantic States easterly to southerly winds, cloudy weather and rain areas; for Gulf States southerly to westerly winds and partly cloudy weather; for the Northwest a rising barometer, northerly to westerly winds and clearing weather, and extend eastward over Missouri, Illinois and Lake Michigan by Wednesday morning, and over Michigan and Indiana by Wednesday afternoon. The low barometer over Wisconsin will probably move northeastward into Canada. Brisk and very brisk southerly winds for Lakes Huron, Erie and Michigan tonight, and for Lake Ontario on Wednesday. Cautionary signals are ordered for Milwaukee, Chicago, Grand Haven, Detroit, Toledo, Cleveland and Buffalo.

Steamboatmen's Convention at Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, September 24.—The convention met at the Kensard House to-day at three o'clock P. M. Thomas Sherlock, of Cincinnati was elected President; J. P. Whiting, of Michigan, and D. D. Smith, of New York, Vice Presidents; Gen. E. L. M. James, and Captain Bertram Snyder, Recording Secretaries. Addresses were delivered by Messrs. Sherlock, Whiting, Kountz, D. D. Smith, Gen. Jas. S. Negley, and Captain B. L. Osborne. The National Executive Committee, appointed at the Louisville convention, in November, 1871, reported their proceedings in full. All the standing committees were appointed to-day. A large delegation from the seaboards, lakes and western river ports is present, representing steam vessel property to the amount of six hundred million dollars. A permanent organization of the National Board of Steam Navigation is proposed, with local associations in various ports. The leading topics under discussion are the best methods of saving life and property on steam vessels. The convention adjourned to meet at seven this evening.

AN INDIANA ROMANCE.

Elopement and Divorce for a Consideration.

[From the Indianapolis Journal.]

We have to chronicle this week the story of a marriage which culminated after some of those mysterious and complicated difficulties which so often beset love's pathway. It is the old story of faithless love on one hand, and constancy to the end on the other. It may be remembered that some time in July the Journal made mention of the clandestine marriage of a Miss Jennings, the only daughter of the Mayor of Franklin, to a Mr. Davis, express messenger on the Martinsville division of the Indianapolis, Cincinnati and Lafayette Railroad. At the time of her marriage she was engaged to a Mr. Barngrover, of Franklin, who, of course, was kept in ignorance of secret engagement with Davis until the time of her elopement and marriage. The arrangements were made, and the girl was to meet Davis at some point on the road, and they would then proceed to Martinsville and be married. She went to Barngrove, who was the owner of a livery stable, and requested the use of his best rig, which of course, was granted, and she immediately started for Trafalgar, a village on the road, where she was met by Davis, the team sent back, and the proceeded to Martinsville, and were married that evening. Her marriage with Davis does not seem to have been a fortunate one, and after a few days she returned to her parents and said she would not live with him. While at home she came to this city on one occasion with her former suitor, who had not given her up entirely yet, and when Davis heard of it he declared that he would never live with her again. Mr. Barngrover, still thinking there was a chance for him, sent to Davis to know what amount he would take to procure a divorce. Davis answered that he would take $200. Barngrover returned word that the amount was large, and wanted to know the least possible sum he would take. Davis answered that he would take $150, and not a cent less. Barngrover then sent him the $150, and Davis filed a complaint in the Common Please Court at Franklin for divorce on the grounds of desertion, and in due time the divorce was granted, but not quite soon enough to carry out the entire programme, for wedding No. 2 had been set for Tuesday evening of this week, and arrangements perfected for the occasion; but when the bridegroom made application for the license the clerk informed him that the Judge had not signed the decree, and he would have to wait, and like a man he waited until the next day, and they were made one flesh. So much happiness for so little lucre.

FROM PARNASSUS.

"Model Mill" Burned—Politics—Academy.

Special Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Commercial.

PARNASSUS, PA., September 24, 1872.

On Saturday night about eight and a half o'clock, the large flouring mills of Chapman, Bryson & Co., were discovered on fire, the destroying element having already made such headway as to baffle extinguishment. The whole structure, with most of its contents, now lies a smouldering ruin. The mills were built last fall at a cost of $11,000, and were doing a thriving business; but on Saturday evening this conflagration gave us a fearful fiery commentary on the proverb of the wise king, "Riches certainly make themselves wings; they fly away as an eagle toward heaven."—Prov. 23, 5. The property was insured to the amount of $6,500. There was a breeze blowing at the time, and it was with the utmost difficulty that other buildings were saved. Some think the fire was the work of an incendiary fiend; others that it caught from the heating of the journals of the smut machine, as it began on the third story where this machine was. Mr. R. K. Armstrong suffered the loss of a carpenter shop and some lumber. Mr. Master's tin-shop close by was partially burned.

Politics here are rather quiet. A few evenings since there was a small Greeley gathering addressed by three rather youthful sons of Mercury, one at least of whom, was as badly mixed up as the cause he was advocating. He spoke of the "stormy Pacific" and the "peaceful Atlantic!" of "General Boutwell, Secretary of the Interior," &c. He was badly upside down in his speech. We know of no converts.

The second term of the Parnassus Academy has opened.

TWENTY-FOURTH DISTRICT.

The Contest Between Moore and McClelland—Congressional Record of the Democratic Contest.

The Congressional canvass in the Twenty-fourth district, and especially in Lawrence county, is waxing very warm. Our correspondents all speak hopefully of the result, and all concur in the statement that Mr. Moore, the Republican candidate, will have at least one thousand majority if Lawrence county polls the party strength. The press and speakers are bringing to light some of Captain McClelland's votes during the last session of Congress, and comparing them with Buckalew's infamous record.

On April 6th, 1871, a bill was introduced into the House of Representatives to inforce the provisions of the Fourteenth amendment of the United States Constitution. McClelland voted with all the rebel sympathisers against the bill. [See Congressional Globe, page 522.] This was the bill designed to protect the loyal citizens, black and white, in the Southern States.

March 12, 1871, Mr. Braxton, of Virginia, introduced in the House of Representatives a bill to pay to the widow of the rebel General R. E. Lee, the sum of $300,000 for the Arlington estate—property worth at the most liberal estimate not over one-tenth of that sum. General Butler immediately moved to lay the bill on the table, and many of the Democrats voted with the Republicans thus to kill the iniquitous measure. McClelland, however, was not of the number, he voting with Beck, of Kentucky, and other known rebel sympathisers to save the bill. These facts are set forth at full in the Congressional Globe for the last session, pages 75-76.

Comment is unnecessary—these votes speak for themselves.

The Strongest Man-of-War Afloat.

The London Daily News' special correspondent at St. Petersburg, writing on the 28th ultimo, says: Yesterday the sea going turret ship Peter the Great was launched from the Admiralty dock-yards. The vessel received its name from the Grand Duke Constantine, in the presence of a great concourse of people. In a few days she will be lifted into a floating dock, which will be towed, with its enormous burden, over the shallows to Cronstadt, where the engines will be fitted, the ship's sides and turret sheathed with massive plates, the four great steel cannon shipped, and in less than a year's time Russia will have at sea by far the most powerful man-of-war yet built. The vessel has been designed by Admiral Popoff. His ship differs in many respects from the American and English turret ships. The Peter the Great is 329 feet 8 inches in length between perpendiculars. Her greatest outside breadth is 63 feet. The builder's measurement is 5,352 tons, and the displacement with coal, stores, and water in boilers will be 9,665 tons, at a mean draught of 23 feet 9 inches. The plates on the ship's sides and raised building amid-ships vary from 12 to 14 inches, and the armor-plate protects the ship to a depth of six inches below the water line. The vessel has no spur, but the upright stem is heavily plated, and of enormous strength. Many sailors are of opinion that the spur may be a source of danger to the vessel fitted with it, and that the strong, straight stem of the Peter the Great will deliver a most effective blow with little or no risk to herself. The ship has two large turrets, which are plated with 16 inches of iron in two thicknesses of 14 and 2 inches. She has no masts, but depends entirely on her engines.

A METHOD of printing from photographs adopted in Prussia consists in the employment of a sensative film of gelatine containing bichromate of potash. This film is spread upon thick glass, and after exposure in the camera in the usual way, thepotographic image is fixed by liquid ammonia. The picture is invisible until the inking roller has passed over the glass plate, which may be printed from in much the same way as a lithograpic stone. Abut 5,000 impressions have been taken from a glass plate prepared in this way, the plate being in all cases strong enough to be capable of being passed through the press without injury. The process has been adopted at Krupp's works at Essen.

NEW MEXICO furnishes queer things, aside from queer gems, and queer animals are included in the discoveries. In pools of water, near the Ojo de la Vaca, a scientist discovered an amphibious animal, having nine legs on a side, protuberances in front resembling horns, about four inches in length, and that breathed through its tail. Polliwogs having been thrown into a basin of water in which was placed this wonderful animal, they were instantly seized and devoured, thus establishing its identity with the family of the carnivore. As an Irishman in the party had drank up all the available alcohol, the queer fellow could not be preserved—so we have the story, and science has lost the specimen.

As an evidence of what can be done with fruit in Virginia, it is stated that Col. Daniels, of the State Journal, on his estate on the Potomac, is raising successfully thirty-five different qualities of grapes.

LOCAL MEETINGS.

Announcements for This Week.

The County Committee on Meetings and Speakers, of which Major E. A. Montooth is chairman, have arranged for the following meetings during the remainder of this week:

At City Hall, to-night, to be addressed by the Hon. J. G. Blaine, of Maine, and Hon. Edgar Allen, of Virginia.

At Fulton and Webster streets, Thursday evening, Hon. G. W. Scofield and Hon. Henry O'Connor, of Iowa.

At Gerst's Hotel, Allegheny, on Thursday evening, Hon. Charles E. Beahle.

Ninth ward, Allegheny, Friday evening, J. H. Osmer, Esq., Franklin.

At City Hall, Saturday night, Hon. Geo. H. Williams, Assistant Attorney General of the United States.

Executive Committee Meeting.

Yesterday afternoon the County Republican Executive Committee held a meeting at headquarters, President Gross in the chair and Mr. F. P. Case acting as Secretary.

The several sub-committees reported the special business assigned them as being properly and efficiently attended to.

The matter of having a grand torchlight procession of all the clubs in this city was discussed, and eventually the following resolutions covering the matter were adopted:

Resolved, That it is deemed expedient to have a grand torchlight procession, and that all the marching clubs of the two cities and vicinity be invited to participate.

Resolved, That the officers of this Committee be requested to aid this demonstration as far as possible, and that a call be issued for a meeting of the Captains of the various clubs at these headquarters on Thursday evening, September 28th, for the purpose of electing a Chief Marshal and other officers, and to make such other arrangements as may ensure the success of the display.

A special committee, consisting of Dr. Arthurs, Mr. F. P. Case, Mr. R. B. Brown and Mr. W. H. Brown, was appointed to confer with the captains of the several marching clubs, with a view to perfecting arrangements for the proposed procession.

After the disposal of some routine business the meeting adjourned.

Dr. Douglass's Successor.

The members of the First Reformed Presbyterian Church, so long under the pastoral charge of the Rev. John Douglass, D. D., who resigned on account of ill health, held a meeting on Monday evening, for the purpose of choosing a pastor. B. C. Miller, Esq., was chosen chairman, and Messrs. Harvey Chess and James W. Houston elected secretaries. Rev. Nevin Woodside, a young minister of Brooklyn, was unanimously declared to be the choice of the congregation for their pastor. Messrs. Alexander Black and James B. Dalzell were appointed commissioners to lay the action of the congregation before the Presbytery at its next meeting, to be held at Austintown on the first Tuesday of October.

THE VETERAN LEGION.

Meeting of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Resident Committee—Thanks Returned to the Ladies and Singers—A Permanent Military Organization Formed, &c., &c.

Yesterday afternoon the Resident Veteran Committee of the Soldiers and Sailors Convention, held a special meeting at old City Hall. Gen. A. L. Pearson occupied the Chair, and Captain Wm. Dalgleish acted as Secretary.

Some unfinished business of the Committee, in relation to the late convention, was first disposed of.

Mr. Grayson moved that a vote of thanks be tendered to the ladies of the Subsistence Committee, who had performed their duty so nobly during the Convention. Adopted unanimously.

Thanks were also returned to the ladies who took part in the vocal exercises at the Opera House during the convention, and to the Welsh glee clubs, the choirs, the Committee on Music, and all who participated in the musical portion of the proceedings at the convention.

Capt. Moore suggested that a committee on resolutions of thanks to the ladies of the subsistence committee, be appointed, and that the committee be directed to have the resolutions lithographed on silk, with a blank line left for the placing of each lady's name thereon; that the resolutions be neatly framed and a copy presented to each of the ladies.

The suggestions were put in the form of a motion and adopted unanimously, and Mayor Callow, Capt. Dalgleish and Captain Aull appointed on the Committee.

The business of the Committee being finished, Gen. Pearson announced that a great many of his military friends had spoken to him and communicated with him in relation to the formation of a permanent organization of the veteran soldiers and sailors of Allegheny county, and he thought the present an excellent occasion to hear suggestions and talk the matter over.

Several gentlemen favored the idea and indorsed it heartily.

Gen. Pearson suggested that the organization be known as the "Veteran Legion of Allegheny County."

Major Harper moved that a temporary organization be effected at once by calling Gen. Pearson to the chair and appointing Captain Dalgleish secretary. Adopted.

Captain J. B. Moore was then made Vice President and Major Harper, Treasurer.

A temporary organization effected, on motion an executive committee of ten was appointed. The committee is as follows: Hon. A. P. Callow, Major Hancock, Captain Isaac Cline, Captain John F. Hunter, Lieut. J. H. Grayson, Captain D. L. Crawford, Captain J. E. B. Dalzell, Jacob Davis, Captain Cunningham and W. P. Hunker.

A committee on hall for meeting purposes was then appointed.

Major Harper favored the idea of allowing such citizens as were friends to the soldiers and sailors forming a part of the organization; the affairs of the two bodies to be managed by a joint committee from each.

The matter was left over for future consideration.

Messrs. Harper, Moore, Negley and Schaffer were then appointed a committee on Permanent Organization, after which the name "Veteran Legion of Allegheny County" was adopted and the meeting adjourned.

THE KNIFE.

Serious Cutting Affray in a House of Ill Fame—Attempt to Rob Visitors—Two Women and Three Men Arrested.

An affray of quite a serious nature occurred between five and six o'clock last evening in a house of ill fame, located in the rear of No. 179 Webster avenue. Of the several accounts of the affair in circulation last night, the most plausible is the following: About five o'clock Robert Hackett and William Wilkinson, two keepers employed at Dixmont Hospital, visited the house in question. One of the men, Hackett, left the sitting room of the establishment and accompanied one of the women, Emma Trosh, to an upper apartment. Presently the woman made some excuse for leaving the room. She had been gone but a few moments when the door of the apartment was suddenly opened and a man rushed in, knife in hand, and instantly made a cut at Hackett. The latter threw up his hands to ward off the knife, and in so doing received a couple of ugly cuts across the back of his right hand. His friend, Wilkinson, who was in another room, hearing Hackett's cry for help, rushed to his assistance. Entering the apartment where Hackett was, he found that the latter had his assailant down upon a bed, choking him. No sooner, however, had Wilkinson entered then a number of men and women followed. The man with the knife was released, and instantly he attacked Wilkinson, cutting a deep gash across his left cheek, and with a second cut laying open the flesh on his left side for a space of six inches. The row then became general, the women taking part therein. The man who did the cutting is supposed to be one Charles Carson, who had some claims upon the girl to whom Hackett was devoting his attention. Officers Sayres and O'Donnell were speedily upon the ground, and arrested the parties named, and also a girl giving the name of Nelly Devore, who, it is alleged, had participated in the affray. The prisoners were conducted to the lock-up, where city physician Dr. McCann sewed up the wounds of the two men, and afforded them such relief as fell within his province. Wilkinson narrowly escaped with his life, as indeed did his friend Hackett, who, had he received the cut made at him, would probably, ere this, have furnished material for a coroner's inquest. Both men assert that the object was undoubtedly to rob them, as the girl Trosh knew that each of them had money. As it was, Hackett lost about twenty-eight dollars, ten of which was subsequently brought to the lock-up office and handed to the officer in charge. This morning the matter will probably be fully investigated at the Mayor's hearing. Officers Sayers and O'Donnell are to be commended for their promptness in arresting the parties concerned in this affray.

THE GAS COMPANIES' WAR.

The Consolidated Company Not Enjoined.

Judge Kirkpatrick, of the District Court, yesterday delivered a verbal decision in the matter of the Pittsburgh Gas Company vs. The Consolidated Gas Company, being an application for an injunction to restrain the latter company from laying its mains in the streets of the city, on the ground that the old company has the exclusive right to use the streets for that purpose, and for the reason that the new company is not domiciled here. Judge Kirkpatrick remarked that it was the intention of the Court to prepare a written decision, but the serious illness and subsequent death of an intimate friend (John Mellon, Esq.) prevented. The Court was clearly of opinion, however, that the Pittsburgh Gas Company did not have the exclusive right to use the streets of the city, and that the new company was domiciled in Pittsburgh. The application for an injunction was therefore refused.

This is a decided triumph for the Consolidated Gas Company, and the decision is important to the public in another aspect, namely: That the present company cannot shut out all competition in the manufacture of gas. Other proceedings will probably be instituted by the old gas company, in order to bring the case before the Supreme Court.

Death of a Prominent Lawyer.

John Mellon, Esq., a prominent member of the Pittsburgh bar, died at his residence on Ross street, yesterday morning, at nine o'clock, of hemorrhage of the lungs. Mr. Mellon was a native of Ireland, but his parents emigrated to this country when he was four years old. At an early age he entered the office of Hon. Cornelius Darragh as an office boy. At the age of eighteen he had mastered the rudiments of the profession, and before he was twenty-one held a certificate entitling him to admission to practice in our courts. He could not be admitted, however, until he had attained his majority, and was compelled to wait. He was not idle during this period, but rendered valuable aid to his preceptor. On his admission he became a partner of Mr. Darragh. This partnership continued until the demise of Mr. Darragh in 1850. Mr. Mellon then practised law "on his own hook" for some time, and afterward went into partnership with Col. Sam. W. Black, which continued until the appointment of Col. Black Governor of Nebraska. He then went into partnership with Col. Biddle Roberts, and this was only broken when the latter accepted a position on the Governor's staff at the breaking out of the war. Mr. Mellon then entered into partnership with the present Judge Kirkpatrick, and they practised together until the latter was elected to the bench, since which time, up till his demise, Mr. Mellon prosecuted the practice of his profession alone. Mr. Mellon was not a brilliant pleader, but he was a safe counsellor, and his judgment in legal matters was at all times respected by both bench and bar. He was a man of indefatigable industry, and a close student in his profession. Indeed it may be said that, considering his physical condition, he was overworked. His large practice and his fidelity to the interest of every client, necessitated great labor. He was able, earnest and faithful as an attorney, and was strictly upright and honorable in all his ways. He leaves a wife and six children and a large circle of friends to mourn his demise. He died in his forty-eighth year, after a very brief illness. His death was announced in the District Court yesterday morning by Robert Woods, Esq., and in respect to the memory of the deceased Court adjourned. A meeting of the members of the bar will be held this afternoon at two o'clock to take suitable action in regard to the death of their late fellow member.

Borough of Verona.

We would call attention to the sale of lots in this borough on Tuesday, October 1st, 1872. No new town in Western Pennsylvania contains, in an equal degree, the elements of real prosperity. Situated in the beautiful valley of the Allegheny river, connected by a double track railroad with the city, with extended level land upon both sides of the Allegheny Valley Railroad track, and thus furnishing excellent sites for manufacturing purposes, with a coal railroad down the valley of Pena creek, connecting with the Allegheny Valley Railroad near the center of the borough, with the extensive works of the railroad company, round-house, machine shops, gas works, and with its elegant private residences, Verona can justly claim a high place among the boroughs that surround the city.

The property to be offered for sale by Mr. Morley, on Tuesday, October 1st, on the Homestead Plan, of one hundred monthly payments, without interest, is central in position. About five acres of this property have choice bearing fruit trees, is convenient to the public school house, and the extensive works now being erected.

Persons buying these lots need not wait for years for bearing fruit trees, but can have them at their own door and ministering to their present wants. WF

Pianos and Organs on the Renting Plan.

The introduction into this city of the renting plan of furnishing the public with first-class musical instruments by Messrs. Mellor & Hoene, No. 53 Fifth avenue, has been attended with remarkable success, and demonstrated fully its great usefulness as an aid to musical culture. By the operation of this system hundreds of families in our midst have now instruments in their homes who otherwise would never have been possessed of them. The renting plan recommends itself more especially to that class of our citizens who have a stated weekly or monthly salary, enabling them to meet their payments, but not to pay cash for an instrument. The terms of payment established by Mellor & Hoene, which are sufficiently easy for all who can under any circumstances afford the purchase of a piano or organ, can be ascertained by calling at their music store, No. 53 Fifth avenue.

Committees and others should send their orders promptly, as the edition is limited.

Price $1 75 per hundred.

SPEAKER BLAINE TO-NIGHT.

The Republicans of Pittsburgh will gladly embrace the opportunity of hearing the Hon. J. G. BLAINE, the distinguished Speaker of the House of Representatives, at City Hall to-night. Mr. BLAINE is not a stranger to the citizens of Pittsburgh, and the announcement that he is to speak will be sufficient to crowd the hall. He will be accompanied by the Hon. EDGAR ALLEN, of Virginia, an able and popular speaker.

EX-GOV. CURTIN's letter of lamentation on the degeneracy of the times—more especially in the politics and government of the State—is addressed to Colonel ALEXANDER MCCLURE, who has probably done more to corrupt the fountains of legislation and morals of politics generally, in Pennsylvania, than any score of men that could be named. The farce is too broad, the imposition too open to deceive the public, or to gain for the actors any other comment than that which springs from a perfect knowledge of their hypocrisy.

THE sentiment regarding the right of States to secede, to which Mr. GREELEY gave expression in 1861, and which he reaffirmed in his Pittsburgh speech last week, is as follows:

> "As to secession, I have said repeatedly and here repeat that if the people of the slave States, or the cotton States alone, really wish to get out of the union, I am in favor of letting them out. If their vote shall indicate their settled resolve to get out of the union, I will do all I can to help them out at an early day."

Senator SCHURZ, Monday evening, spoke in eulogistic terms of Mr. GREELEY and referred to his visit here in words that conveyed nothing but approbation of what was said and done here by him. We have therefore the practical indorsement of the GREELEY heresy by SCHURZ: a heresy which is to stand as a part of the Cincinnati Platform as supplemented by GREELEY himself.

IN his speech at Louisville, HORACE GREELEY bemoaned it as a "discouraging fact" that the colored people of the country were opposed to him—which he attributed to their dense ignorance and prejudice; intimating that as fast as they became enlightened they would leave the Republican party and vote the Confederate ticket. He seems to have changed his opinion somewhat since the time when he stated that only the lowest and vilest negroes would be found in the Democratic party. Not a very great while ago he declared that as soon as the colored vote should be cast as the white vote is—in accordance with the diverse education, habits, associations and tastes of the voters, "you may be morally sure that a negro who is keeping a thieves' grog shop or a den of infamy will usually vote the Democratic ticket." That is to say, in the latitude of New York HORACE GREELEY insults the Democratic party, and in the latitude of Kentucky slanders the black race; or the reason that in both cases he thought he could do so with impunity. This is the man who considers himself to be the apostle of "reconciliation!"

IS IT SUICIDE OR MURDER?

Less than a month ago, that pure man and incorruptible patriot, Col. ALEXANDER MCCLURE, boasted that, whatever ex-Governor CURTIN's views and intentions might be, he would "pull him into the support of BUCKALEW;" and this boast he has made good. In fact, for a long time it has been MCCLURE's boast that he could "make CURTIN do anything"—a boast which it has been his habit, without regard to CURTIN's reputation, to accompany with the recital of instances during the last dozen years, wherein he made it good. This has been a favorite subject with MCCLURE, and with almost brutal disregard of CURTIN's reputation, especially since his probable place ultimately in this campaign began to be discussed.

The case is clearly this: If it is not one of deliberate suicide by CURTIN, then it is one of no less deliberate killing by MCCLURE. It is a case of death beyond question,—the form of it only being open to dispute. So unnatural an action as ANDREW G. CURTIN—who was so right during the times when he was called to act, and when he made the reputation he has now wrecked—giving his support to CHARLES R. BUCKALEW, can have but one result. The ex-Governor will find that his old friends will not follow him. The manner, too, of the transaction is the worst possible for him,—first on one side of the fence, then the other; next awhile astride, and finally landing, through the main strength of MCCLURE, as he boats, in the camp of his old and worst enemies, in support of principles he has ever professed to condemn,—we say the manner of the taking off, be it suicide or murder, is the worst possible for the victim whose fate excites so much pity.

THE STRUGGLE FOR PENNSYLVANIA.

If General HARTRANFT is defeated, it will be neither for want of leadership, of organization, or of a just cause, but simply and solely from bad faith on the part of professed members of the Republican organization. His defeat must be brought about by those to whom he has a right to look for support, if it is compassed at all. Of themselves, the Confederates are altogether powerless to elect BUCKALEW, and unless they can succeed in Greeleyizing a considerable number of GRANT men, the triumphant election of General HARTRANFT is already assured. Never, perhaps, in any political campaign, has a candidate for office been hounded by such persistent and malignant injustice as that to which he has been subjected. He has been slandered and persecuted even more relentlessly and unscrupulously than General GRANT—for the reason, of course, that the enemies of the latter know full well that a stab at the former is the most effective way in which they can deal a blow at him. Ordinarily, when one is wantonly assailed and made the target of such venomous shafts as have been shot at General HARTRANFT since his candidature for the office of Governor began, men with a spark of manhood in their composition are apt to rally to his support and vindication in exactly the degree of the enormity of the outrage. In this manner the American people have time and again sustained their belied leaders, and put the seal of their indignant reprobation on cowardice, cruelty, and foul play. And this is exactly what the people of Pennsylvania are called upon to do with reference to the attacks on General HARTRANFT. According to the testimony of his worst political enemies, his record is unblemished, his ability unquestionable, his integrity beyond dispute. Yet, now that he stands in the way of the private revenge of some, and the personal ambition of others, all the vials of calumny and blackguardism are poured out upon his unoffending head. If he is defeated, he will be the victim of a shameful conspiracy which violated all the obligations of political warfare, and all the decencies of personal conduct. But the conspiracy will not succeed, except through the assistance of Republicans themselves. The question is, whether the citadel is to be surrendered through the cowardice or treachery of those who claim to be among its defenders.

DOWN—DOWN—DOWN!

MILTON somewhere says that at the bottom of the lowest deep there is a lower still. HORACE GREELEY seems determined to find it out. His Newport and Louisville speeches, for instance, seemed to have touched the very nethermost profundity of self-abasement; but in his harangue at Jeffersonville, on the opposite side of the river, he plunged headlong still further in the fathomless abyss. At the former places he apologized for the war of the Union, glossed over the murder by starvation of upwards of thirty thousand Union prisoners at Andersonville, aspersed the veterans of the country and derided the colored people for their lack of education. At the latter place he went still further—acknowledging that very possibly his opposition to slavery "might have been a mistake," and intimating that "God had imposed disabilities" upon negroes, which placed them quite below the level of the whites. He also made a piteous appeal to his auditors not to judge him by what he might have spoken or written in the past, or by what the Tribune, as his mouthpiece, might have said. "My thoughts," he pleaded, "have been given to the public warm and fresh—sometimes before an opportunity has been offered for due consideration and correction—very often mingled with the thoughts of others, which were not my own, but which it was very easy to attribute to me." Then he went on to accuse the people of the North of flagrant cruelty and oppression toward those of the South, breaking out at last into this sophomorical scream: "The many are proscribed in the few." "I feel the blows inflicted on him—the ring that ties him to the dungeon eats into my heart as well as his." Throughout, the speech was that of a man who seems thoroughly ashamed of whatever is honorable in his past career, and who appears fully determined that in the future evil shall become his good. He may possibly gain a few votes in the South by his course, but he is fast earning the execrations of all, whether Democrats or Republicans, who have helped to make and keep us a nation.

MR. GREELEY AND FREE TRADE.

In the absence of their own positive and unqualified declarations on the subject, it would be simply impossible to believe that intelligent men who are in favor of a protective tariff, are also in favor of the Liberal party. The inconsistency of Pennsylvanians in this matter is peculiarly glaring and incomprehensible. If they really believe in the policy of a protective tariff as essential to the best interests of the country, they cast contempt upon their own convictions and are both directly and indirectly laboring in aid of their bitter and arrogant antagonists by supporting HORACE GREELEY in his attempt to become President of the United States. Many of these inconsistent people are evidently imposed upon by a mere name, a fact which most strikingly illustrates the truth, that where results apparently remote are concerned, many are ever ready to act upon the old law maxim,—"as to things not seen and as to things non-existent the reason is the same." GREELEY is known to them as the great champion of protection. Some of them may know that his only solid claim to fame rests upon the very remarkable ability and success with which, through more than a score of years, he has maintained, defended and recommended the protective policy as an indispensable means of building up domestic manufactures and cherishing domestic industry in this country. Possessing naturally great skill in popularizing any idea which he has made his own, and having long brooded over this single topic or branch of political economy, GREELEY has been able to present the subject with a clearness and force which have proved very effective in enlisting sympathy and support for his views, and in counteracting the immense weight of argument and commercial influence arrayed against them. Able popular lecturers and powerful newspapers, backed by the authority of nearly all the systematic writers on political economy in Europe and America, though assiduously toiling, toiled in vain, or with poor results, in favor of free trade against the arguments and appeals of the Tribune in favor of a protective tariff.

Remembering these facts, our tariff Liberals say, What better thing can the friends of protection do than place so able and faithful a supporter of the protective policy in the Presidential chair? And some of them even wax emphatic, if not eloquent, in denouncing the ingratitude of those friends of protection who decline to honor its great champion by helping to gratify his ambition for office.

The plain truth is that Mr. GREELEY, by his course touching this very subject of protection to home industry, has proved himself unworthy of the aid claimed for him, and if there were no other data by which to form an estimate of his character, his recent inconsistency and truckling with reference to this great interest would, by themselves, suffice to show his moral and intellectual unfitness for the responsible office to which he aspires.

Just look at the naked, staring facts of the transaction which resulted in the Cincinnati and Baltimore nominations. The revenue reformers, as they called themselves, who met in the former city, were strict and enthusiastic free traders. They were picked representatives of the men, quite numerous in some sections, who are so sure of the soundness of their own opinions, and so zealous in their propagation, that they do not hesitate to denounce protection as robbery, and its friends as grinders of the faces of the poor. In their thought and vocabulary, the iron makers of Pennsylvania and the manufacturers of New England are robbers under the shield of law, while their neighbors, who favor the protection of their industry, are either their accomplices or their dupes. In their milder and more genial moments, these amiable free traders express the assured belief that if these Pennsylvania and Yankee "knights of industry" and their stupid retainers cannot in any other way be got rid of, the general interests of the whole country require that they shall be pensioned off, and be thus reconciled to the surrender of their monopoly. As to the men who met in Baltimore, we need hardly say that Democrats are generally free traders. In the days before the war, free trade was, upon the whole, the policy of the party, and it is well understood at present that the restoration of the Democrats to power would involve the triumph of economical principles which tariff men deem fatal to the industrial interests of the country.

Now, it is safe to say that no man in the nation understands these truths better than HORACE GREELEY. Not many months ago, referring to the SCHURZ-BROWN movement in Missouri, Mr. GREELEY wrote:—"We have from the first affirmed that this movement which conceals its real object under the phrase 'revenue reform,' is intended to overthrow the Republican party. The engineers of the Liberal Republican movement despite all pretences, never expected to reach their object through the Republican party but over its ruins. Their plan was simply to draw away a sufficient number of Republicans from the Republican party to secure the victory to the Democrats, and thus overthrow the protective policy. Their game in Missouri exposes, beforehand the game which they intend to play in the next Presidential election." When Mr. GREELEY thus wrote he did not expect to be tempted to take a part in the game so clearly foreseen and so warmly denounced. But when the temptation did come to him, making its appeal to ambitious aspirations so long cherished as to have become a sort of monomania, neither fidelity to his own past, nor the convictions for which he had been battling through thirty years, enabled him to resist and repel the tempter. It is well known that one chief motive which recommended GREELEY's nomination for the Presidency was the desire to silence his advocacy of protection. His fidelity to this great interest was the single subject as to which he had ever been steadfast and consistent, and his tempters well knew that if he succumbed and joined their conspiracy, his best fame would be tarnished and his influence destroyed. Under the shallow pretext of submitting the subject wholly to the people, as if it had not always rested with the people, GREELEY became silent about the tariff, and he has even promised, if elected President, to interpose no hindrance to the inauguration of a system which he has always denounced as certain to bring disaster upon the best material interests of the nation. To people of plain understanding and unsophisticated conscience it is not easy to perceive that such a surrender of convictions in exchange for a nomination to office is a whit less discreditable than if it had been made in exchange for a sum of that "British gold," concerning which Mr. GREELEY used to say so much. Certainly the man capable of such barter is not the style of man whom the people may with safety and self-respect place in the responsible position of their chief magistrate.

Returning for a moment to our Liberal tariff men we merely remind them that by sanctioning the transaction by which GREELEY has become the Presidential nominee of the free traders, they do all in their power to throw discredit upon the doctrine of protection, and thus to strengthen its enemies while weakening its supporters.

WHAT A REFORMER!

Senator SCHURZ is as adroit as he is plausible and demagogical. An adept in the art of trying—

> "To prove by reason, in reason's despite,
> That right is wrong, and wrong is right,
> And white is black, and black is white—"

He is also remarkable for the skillfulness with which he avoids touching upon topics that turn a sharp edge toward himself. He is an able sophist. There is no doubt of that. But the glibness of his tongue is fully matched by the pliability of his conscience. For instance, no argument is needed to prove that the best way of bringing about the "reforms" over which the Senator waxed so eloquent in his speech here on Monday night, is for every man to "reform" himself, to tread down his own selfish ambitions, and content himself with laboring for the common good. Yet although the voluble Senator had a vast deal to say about the corruption of the carpet-baggers, about "despotism," about "office-holders," and what not else, he was as dumb as an oyster concerning his own record as a "Reformer" of the abuses of office holding. Senator SCHURZ should have enlightened his audience on this point beyond all others; since, when a man's own life illustrates the doctrines he advances, they assume a tenfold significance and value. This moral exquisite, in the course of his Senatorial career, has urged upon the "corrupt" administration of President GRANT to appoint one hundred and four of his friends and relatives to important offices—distributed as follows: Nineteen consulships, eight missions, two governors of territories, two marshalships, one district attorneyship, four Indian agencies, two Surveyor General's offices, one register, one pension agency, one chaplaincy, twenty-seven clerkships, twenty postmasters, three revenue collectorships, two assessorships and one surveyorship. Now if there can be any better proof of exalted unselfishness, and of intense regard for the purity of the civil service, than that which these recommendations afford, we should be very glad to know what it is. It is not every man whose interest in the welfare of the country is so overwhelming. The "brother-in-law" business dosen't begin to match it. "I am the State," said Louis the Fourteenth. "I am the Civil Service Reform," says Senator SCHURZ—on the same ground, of course, that a drunken man is a temperance lecturer. Vive la hypocrisy!

PENNSYLVANIA GRANT MEN, ATTENTION!

The New York Tribune has nothing but approbation to bestow on Mr. BUCKALEW, for his tactics designed to steal Pennsylvania from GRANT, in October, for it is confident that the State lost in October, it cannot be regained in November. Therefore BUCKALEW's game of enticing GRANT Republicans into his support, as the surest way to defeat GRANT, is regarded by the Tribune as just the thing for the emergency. A Philadelphia letter, printed in the Tribune, states the matter thus:

> "I judge that no Republican who intends to vote for GREELEY and BROWN in November, will fail to vote for BUCKALEW in October. Aside from the prestige which a victory in this State will give the Liberal cause, there are other reasons why every friend of Mr. GREELEY should help to defeat HARTRANFT."

If there is a GRANT man who feels like assisting to make this game successful, he certainly stands in no danger of having his right to the monopoly of his mode of reasoning disputed.

GENERAL AND PARTICULAR.

AN unofficial letter from a United States official in Berlin, says that little or no doubt is entertained there that the Emperor of Germany has decided in favor of the United States, as arbitrator between Great Britain and this country in the matter of the San Juan or northwestern boundary line.

A number of distinguished English jurists are advocating in the newspapers a codification or digest of the European laws, similar to the code of New York which they praise highly.

CHICAGO is determined to have a jubilee next year, which shall make Boston weep with jealousy. The idea is to celebrate the rebuilding of the city.

Cleopatra's Needle is to be removed from Alexandria to London. This obelisk originally stood at Heliopolis, and was brought down to Alexandria by one of the Cæsars, and was, in 1852, presented by Mohamet Ali to the British government. It is seventy feet high, and at the base is seven feet seven inches in diameter.

The Presbyterian churches of Indiana are said to have adopted the plan of paying for religious purposes a tenth of the income of each member. The money is thrown into the baskets on Sunday morning. No account is kept of the amounts given by each, as all are supposed to be entirely honest in the matter, and it is undesirable to make any distinctions.

The other day a locomotive engineer, at Rutland, Vermont, saved a child's life at the immediate risk of his own. The father, a poor man of the town, who, last year, did not return an income of a dollar more than $75,000, in an outburst of gratitude, pressed him to accept a glass of soda water as the reward of heroic virtue.

The New Bedford Standard says the latest railroad whisper is that one of the great Pennsylvania coal mining companies is anxious to co-operate with the New Bedford and Taunton Railroad, in establishing a depot at that port for the transhipment of coal to the interior of New England.

The American doctrine of the inviolability of private property at sea, in time of war, was among the points discussed at the meeting of the Emperors at Berlin. England and France are the only two important nations which still withhold their assent from the entire abolition of privateering and of warfare upon private vessels.

It is rumored that a powerful "ring" has been formed in Indiana to compel the State to take back the old Wabash and Erie Canal, with its debt of $20,000,000.

A system of canals has been projected in California by which the products of the fertile valleys adjoining the Pacific can be readily transported to tide water. In dry seasons the canals would supply water for irrigation.

The railroad now constructing from Lima to Oroya, piercing the Andes, will unquestionably be, when completed, one of the proudest monuments of human power and enterprise. The tunnel, which is 3,000 feet long, is being executed at an altitude of 15,600 feet above the level of the sea, and with extraordinary rapidity.

A telegraph cable is to communicate between Brazil and the coast of Portugal. Don Pedro has promoted this project by an imperial concession. The more cables the better for civilization.

The priesthood in some parts of Bavaria seem to have made quite a nice thing out of the recent comet scare. Several dishonest vicars distributed little handbills just prior to the 12th of August, promising complete forgiveness of sins and freedom from all danger to those who would, on the eve of the dreadful catastrophe, establish a mass for themselves and their descendants. Many country people were found who paid as high as from 160 to 1,500 florins to be prayed for and to avert the effects of the fearful comet.

It is related as a singular circumstance that the owner of the farm on which Lee surrendered also owned the farm on which the first battle of Bull Run—July 18, 1861—was fought. Fleeing from the might of the Union armies, he found in Appomattox, as he thought, a place to which they would never penetrate, and there, by a singular chance, witnessed the downfall of the Confederacy.

Rhode Island is the only New England State where farms are increasing in value, and this is owing to the growth and prosperity of her manufacturing villages.

The Parisians utilize the huge trenches round their fortifications in cultivating potatoes, beets and other garden sauce. Phosphate of communist is said to make an excellent fertilizer, and the supply is almost inexhaustible, as the captives, with Theirs in their eyes, confess.

In the last report of the Massachusetts labor bureau it is stated that the great obstacle in the way of woman's success as a wage laborer is found in the lack of motive consequent upon her expectation of being married. The girl of fifteen or sixteen looks to but three or five years of wage service, and the earnings of those years are only expected to add to the attractions that shall shorten this period.

A bald eagle, flying with a pig in his talons, was recently shot in Kentucky. It measured six feet from tip to tip.

Florida papers say that an old woman at Perdido was recently torn in pieces and eaten by a panther. A boatman took her across the river to get some vegetables, and as she did not return, a search was instituted, but they only found pieces of her clothing, some torn flesh and blood, and the tracks of a large panther.

The attention of the mining public of Salt Lake City is occupied, with a highly important discovery of a silver ledge twenty-five miles north of Tecoma, on the Central Pacific Railroad. Free mining ore, in inexhaustible quantities, assaying from ninety-four to three thousand ounces of silver per ton. The ledges are distinct and well defined. There is a great rush of people to the new district.

There is still one slave owned in Washington. That is the property of the banker, Corcoran, and is popularly known as Powers's Greek slave.

The Toronto Mail intimates that the reason the newspapers of this country have watched the Canadian elections with more than usual interest is explained by the hope we entertain that the annexation movement would be strengthened by the result.

A Boston horse chestnut tree, which went into the "sere and yellow leaf" in August, is now astonishing the inhabitants by mingling the seasons in buds, leaves and green fruit.

"Grant Men to the Front!"

To the Editor of the Pittsburgh Commercial:

You have struck the key-note—"Grant men to the front." And they must come now. If they delay till November, I agree with you there is a strong liability that the delay will be fatal to them. You are right in arguing that the cause of Hartranft is the cause of Grant, which the friends of Hartranft are fighting with a gallantry which entitles them to the support of every Grant man. Mr. Editor, I will say that I myself hesitated; but I found when I came to view the situation I hesitated no longer. There are some things I would have different; but I must submit to them or yield Grant. This is my conviction. With you, then, I say "Grant men to the front," and at once. 1868.

ANOTHER CORRESPONDENT SPEAKS.

MR. EDITOR: Two weeks ago I thought I would postpone action till November, there being so many things in the October canvass that did not please me. I think otherwise now, for I perceive that my action then might not be of any avail. I "accept the situation," and as a Grant man am ready to come "to the front." I trust that there will be a general movement by the Old Guard.

ONE OF THEM.

An Omission Supplied.

SMITH'S FERRY, PA., September 23, 1873.

To the Editor of the Commercial:

I noticed in this morning's Post a correspondent gives an account of the Democratic meeting at this place, and states that the speakers were frequently interrupted by loud cheers. He forgets to state for whom the cheers were given, and I desire to supply the omission. They were for Grant, Hartranft, and Rutan, and were given by three-fourths of the audience. L.

THE Louisville Commercial says that the speech of Mr. Greeley at the Galt House in that city, was listened to by scarcely four hundred people, and adds: "We think this is about the hardest kind of a commentary on the enthusiasm of Louisville as a Greeley city. Evidently he is not first in the hearts of his countrymen in this section." So it appears that the people of the South are as little inclined to put faith in him as the people of the North. Before the campaign closes Mr. Greeley will discover that recreancy to one's self is the worst possible way of trying to gain the confidence of others.

THE people of Oil City have been discussing the subject of manufactures and the benefit to be derived therefrom by communities. It is proposed to aid liberally in the establishment of industrial enterprises, and the railroad companies also promise co-operation. Among other manufactories spoken of, are a rolling mill, car works, boiler and engine building shops, etc.

THE Philadelphia Press having denied that McClure is its managing editor, the Norristown Herald thinks that, perhaps, the managing editor is only managed by McClure. The Herald has undoubtedly hit the nail right on the head.

PERSONAL.

The case of M. Edmond About has suddenly collapsed. Whether his arrest at Strasbourg was the act of some superserviceable official or an error in judgment by some higher functionary we shall probably never know. But there was no cause found in the examination, and so he was set at liberty. The fertile satirist has been "warned" after the old French imperial fashion. He will go back to Paris and have it out with Germany.

Miss Edmonia Lewis, the colored statuary, is so pressed with orders that she keeps nine assistants busy.

In the District Court of Utah, the other day, Miss Phœbe Couzens, on motion of Governor Woods, was admitted to the bar. An address of welcome was delivered by Judge McKean, and the hearty congratulations of the members of the profession were extended to her. Miss Snow, daughter of the Territorial Attorney General, was also admitted, on motion of ex-United States Attorney Hempstead.

Last Friday, the State dignitaries at Stockholm took the oath of allegiance to the new sovereign of Sweden and Norway. Oscar Frederick, late Duke of Ostrogothic, now proclaimed King Oscar II., is the eldest brother of King Charles XV., and son of King Oscar I. He is now forty-three years of age, a man of acknowledged ability, and will begin his reign enjoying the good will and confidence of his subjects. In accordance with usage, he will be separately crowned in the two ancient kingdoms—at Stockholm for Sweden, and at Drontheim for Norway.

Count Von Arnim, the German Ambassador at Paris, has tendered his resignation, in consequence of the unpleasantness he encounters in Parisian society. It is said further, that if the Count's resignation is accepted his office, for the present, will remain vacant, and the duties thereof will be turned over to the German Consul.

At the silver wedding of a wealthy couple in Oakland, California, while the parlors were resplendent with elegant arrays and smiling faces, the daughter of the house, who but a moment before had been demurely assisting her mother in preparation for the feast, suddenly appeared to her astonished friends in gorgeous white, her fair brow encircled with the mystic wreath of orange blossoms, and simultaneously there appeared a young man duly appareled for a wedding, bringing with him a clergyman. Having surprised their friends, the young couple were themselves destined to be surprised and disappointed, for the license procured in San Francisco proved not to be available in Oakland. Not to be thwarted, however, the party adjourned to the end of the pier near by, which had been decided to be in San Francisco, and by the light of a lantern the marriage was duly consummated.

Mr. Mori, the Japanese charge d'affaires at Washington, has received letters of recall. It is said that complaints have been made against him by the officer of finance, who is now in Europe with General Williams, and he will shortly return to Japan. His successor has not yet been named.

Hon. Garrett Davis, a Senator of the United States from the State of Kentucky, died at his home in that State, last Sunday night. Mr. Davis was seventy-one years of age in the year of his death. He has occupied a conspicuous place in the history of American politics, and has been the contemporary and associate of the greatest of American statesmen. He was a member of the State Legislature in Kentucky in 1833-4-5. He was also a member of the constitutional convention of Kentucky in 1849, and from that State was a Representative in the Twenty-sixth, Twenty-seventh, Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth Congresses of the United States. He was elected to the Senate of the United States as an old line Whig and opposed to secession, to succeed John C. Breckinridge, Vice President of the United States under the administration of James Buchanan. He took his seat in the Senate December 3, 1861. He was re-elected in 1867, and his term of service would have expired March 3, 1873. Mr. Davis was a man whose private life was free from reproach. His public career was a marked and eventful one, and his death cannot fail of arresting, for a moment at least, the attention of the country.

Mr. Buckalew's Attempted Speculation in Birds.

[From the Montour American.]

The Democratic candidate for Governor in this State is so blatant about his own honesty that we ought not to be able to find in his history even the semblance of wrong doing. A little matter is reported to us, by one who is thoroughly conversant with the facts, which places Mr. Buckalew in a position rather inconsistent with that of a strictly honest man. When he occupied an official station in South America as Minister from this country to Ecuador, he was the recipient of many kind attentions on the part of the people of that country. There came into his possession—probably through presentation—a very rich and rare collection of birds, which, upon his return home, he endeavored to sell to the United States Government for preservation in the Smithsonian Institute, for the modest sum of $20,000. Whether he secured that price or afterward accepted a less amount, we do not know, but the stuffed birds at present occupy a place in the Smithsonian Institute, at Washington. The dignity and honesty of a minister, if properly appreciated, would prevent the traffic in stuffed birds, especially when these are received as presents to a representative of the United States.

The Record of Buckalew's Treason.

[From the Reading Times and Dispatch.]

Some days since the Pittsburgh COMMERCIAL charged that Charles R. Buckalew, Greeley candidate for Governor, was at one time a member of the "Order of Sons of Liberty and Knights of the Golden Circle," a secret treasonable organization. The charge was squarely denied by Mr. Buckalew—or at least by the party press supporting him—and the COMMERCIAL was boldly challenged to furnish the evidence upon which it relied to substantiate its allegations. It at once accepted the challenge, and it has produced the proof, which was published in that paper a few days ago. The evidence, which consists of sworn statements, is full and complete—not a link in the chain is missing. The fact that Buckalew was a member of that secret, treasonable order is a powerful argument to use against his election, and it should be used freely.

THE executive committee of the "children's free excursion fund" of Philadelphia have made a very interesting report, detailing the manner in which the money in their charge was expended. Fifteen excursions were given—the first July 27th, the last August 31st. In these 20,902 children participated, the total expense being $9,795 01, or an average of forty-six and eight-tenths cents for each child. The children were furnished during each excursion with three lunches, equal to two full meals, of sandwiches, bread and butter, ham, cakes, ice cream, peaches, tea, milk, etc. The committee have on hand a balance in cash of $2,813 59, which will be invested in bonds, and $500 worth of material, all of which will be stored away for use in similar treats to the children of the poor next season.

IN 1833, when Chicago was in its infancy, the post-office was kept by John Hogan, the first postmaster, in a story-and-a-half log house, a boot-leg in one corner being used as the receptacle for all mail matter. To-day the Chicago Postoffice is next in rank to New York as to general business transacted, first in the list of distributing offices. It gives employment to 173 clerks and 111 letter carriers, even this force being too small to properly attend to the business.

THERE are employed in Chicago some 25,000 horses, valued at an average of $200 each. Of this number 2,000 are owned by street railways and 1,000 by omnibus lines. About 5,000 fresh horses are required every year to keep up the supply, the wear and tear carrying off twenty per cent.

NORTHUMBERLAND county, Pennsylvania, has a fine climate for skunks. Since the 1st of January the Commissioners have paid $1,560 for the scalps. One Johnson, of Turbotville, has received over $500 as his share of the plunder.

Half Alive.

It is a sad thing to pass through life only half alive. Yet there are thousands whose habitual condition is one of langor and debility. They complain of no specific disease; they suffer no positive pain, but they have no relish for anything which affords mental or sensuous pleasure to their more robust and energetic fellow-beings.

In nine cases out of ten this state of lassitude and torpor arises from a morbid stomach. Indigestion destroys the energy of both mind and body. When the waste of nature is not supplied by a due and regular assimilation of the food, every organ is starved, every function interrupted.

Now, what does common sense suggest under these circumstances of depression? The system needs rousing and strengthening; not merely for an hour or two, to sink afterwards into a more pitiable condition than ever (as it assuredly would do if an ordinary alcoholic stimulant were resorted to), but radically and permanently.

How is this desirable object to be accomplished? The answer to this question, founded on the unvarying experience of a quarter of a century is easily given. Infuse new vigor into the digestive organs by a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Do not waste time in administering temporary remedies, but wake the system up by recuperating the fountain-head of physical strength and energy, the great organ upon which all the other organs depend for their nurture and support.

By the time that a dozen doses of the great vegetable tonic and invigorant have been taken, the feeble frame of the dyspeptic will begin to feel its benign influence. Appetite will be created, and with appetite the capacity to digest what it craves. Persevere until the cure is complete—until healthful blood, fit to be the material of flesh and muscle, bone and nerve and brain, flows through the channels of circulation, instead of the watery pabulum with which they have heretofore been imperfectly nourished.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

TUESDAY EVENING, September 24, 1872.

In the local money market everybody seems to want to borrow, and rates are well marked up. Loans running over ninety days meet with no favor, and short dates are the only ones taken without a demurrer. Outside paper finds little attention paid to it, unless supported by good collateral. Rates are about nine to ten per cent. per annum in bank circles, outside paper being scarcely quotable.

—In local stocks very little is doing. We have heard of no sales of Allegheny Valley Railroad 7-30s for some weeks; they are quoted at about 93; Connellsville Railroad 7s at 94½ to 95; city 5s at 77; 6s 88½ to 89, and 7s at par and interest.

—Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and St. Louis Railroad 7s are in favor at 82 to 82½.

—In the stock market Erie is the only feature, opening at 53½, declining to 51 and closing at 53. Borrowers are compelled to pay from 1-16 to 1½ a day for the use of the stock.

—The attempt of some of the New York banks to prevent a corner in money by refusing to pay the bank notes for checks on themselves, but claiming the right to meet those checks only through clearing house, has called the attention of the clearing house association to the legality of this action. Of this the Post says:

"The controversy which excited so much attention last week on the question, whether a bank is obliged to pay a holder of a certified check legal tenders on demand, has been settled, at least as far as the Bank of Commerce is concerned, that bank having Saturday afternoon paid the check in dispute, with costs, &c., the Clearing House not having sustained the bank in its previous refusal. It is now urged that the Clearing House Association adopt a rule that all brokers' checks be certified as "good through the Clearing House." Of course, it will not do simply for one or a few banks to do this unless they all do, as then the banks which give the qualified certification will have a great advantage over those which give an absolute certification."

—Messrs. Ira B. McVay & Co. report the following quotations of Government bonds in New York to-day, as furnished them by Jay Cooke & Co., their correspondents:

—As indicating the systematic manner in which the immigration schemes of the Northern Pacific Railroad is being carried out and to what an extent it is being pushed, we clip the following from an English journal:

"The Rev. Geo. Rodgers, a leading Independent or Congregational minister of Dorsetshire, south of England, accompanied by a number of tenant farmers, has recently made a tour of inspection through Minnesota for the purpose of selecting lands for a colony of 2,000 persons—well-to-do farmers, possessing a capital of from $2,000 to $10,000 each, and who are among the most successful agriculturalists in the world. The delegation selected eight townships in Clay county, Minnesota, on the line of the Northern Pacific railway. A railroad town, to be named Yeovil (in honor of the district from which many of the colonists came), has been set apart near the center of their tract. Two hundred families will leave England in April for this colony, and the remainder, with their pastor, will follow during the season."

—The following table shows the prices of railway stocks, gold, etc., at the various sessions of the New York Stock Exchange during the day:

IRON MARKETS.

BOSTON.

September 21.—The demand for iron continues moderately active and prices are firm. About the only change to be noted in the market is the constant hardening of prices. The large houses are purchasing little or nothing for stock, but are selling off whatever they have at quoted rates. The assortments of bar iron, as we noted last week, are becoming badly broken, and as certain lines become scarce those who are fortunate enough to have them on hand get their own prices for them.

Prices in England are continually hardening and advancing, owing to the disturbances in the coal and labor markets. At present prices in England, English bar of good quality cannot be laid down here short of $120 ₱ ton. As this barely covers the present selling price in Boston, few orders are being placed abroad by Boston dealers. Prices for American have become firmer in sympathy with those for English, and good American bar, bought direct from the manufacturers, costs so near selling rates to leave dealers a small margin. So long as the market remains only moderately active, there will be but little advance, except for sizes and grades which become scarce, but with increased activity an advance in prices seems inevitable.

The market for pig iron is quiet, but prices are firm, with an upward tendency. Scotch is higher. We note sales of Coltness in store at $61 50, in 50 ton lots, which is a low figure. There is no Glengarnock in the market. Eglinton remains at the last quotations, while Gartsherrie is a little higher. American is scarce.

We quote yard lots at $56 00@61 00 per ton, including No 2 extra at $56@57, and No 1 at $58@61. Scotch is held firmly. We quote Eglington at $55, Coltness at $61 50@62 50, Gartsherrie at $60@61.

Imports of pig iron from January 1 to September 7:

	1872.	1871.
From Great Britain, tons	25,741	19,464
From coastwise ports	5,375	9,815

—Commercial Bulletin.

Iron Trade.

The completed returns of the ninth census show the following facts in regard to the several branches of iron industry in the United States, during the year ending June 1, 1870:

Pig Iron—386 establishments, 574 blast furnaces (with a daily capacity of 8,357 tons of melted metal), employing 27,554 hands, producing 2,052,821 tons of pigs of the value of $69,640,498. Bloomery Forges—82, employing 2,902 hands, producing 110,888 tons of blooms, of the value of $3,165,664. Foundries—2,655, employing 51,297 hands, and producing to the value of $99,867,218. Forges—162, employing 3,161 hands, and producing to the value of $8,147,659. Establishments producing bar, rod and railroad iron, nail plate, &c.—309, employing 44,643 hands, and producing to the value of $126,302,158.

PRODUCE AND GENERAL MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH COMMERCIAL,
TUESDAY, September 24, 1872.

REMARKS.—What shall we, or what can we, say with regard to the markets? Prices are, for the most part rule uniform, and no new features are presented.

Flour—The market is very active, and we have not seen the stock so small for a long time as it is at present; orders are coming in from almost every town in Western Pennsylvania. This is something that has not occurred for the past three years. Dealers are now securing the most of their supplies from Southern Indiana, which is of a much better quality than usually sold in this market. They are compelled to buy this, as the Ohio flour, made from new wheat is "doing badly." Old Minnesotas, for bakers' use, are scarce and have advanced 25c. Sales to-day as follows: Penn Mills, fancy white wheat, $8 75; Penn Mills, fancy white wheat, bags, $8 50; "Our Fritz" red winter, bbls, $8 25; Rising Sun $8 00; Minnesota Island, old, $8 25; Old Wisconsins, $7 50. Oat meal, bbl, $8 00. Rye flour $5 25.

Bacon and Provisions—The market is reported very firm, with an active trade demand. Prices are unchanged, the late advance in sugar cured hams being maintained.

Wheat is unchanged in price, and all good brands are eagerly bought by country millers, who, for the nounce, seem to have charge of the grain market, at least so far as wheat is concerned.

Cheese is more sought after, and prices are firm, though not quotably higher.

Butter is in good demand for choice table; common and medium grades dull sale—in fact, not wanted.

Eggs are in fair request for fresh, guaranteed; nothing doubtful is saleable.

Apples are in full supply and sell as to quality, good cooking being in most demand.

Peaches, pears, &c., are in full supply and are sold at moderate rates, as to quality and condition.

GROCERIES—The grocery trade for the past week has been very satisfactory to our dealers, the great convention having brought many buyers to market, and stocks, particularly of sugars, are now very much depleted. On account of the scarcity of refined sugars it will take some time to "stock up" sufficiently to meet all the wants of the trade. However, the demand must fall off considerably with the close of the fruit season, and prices recede accordingly. The recent failures in Baltimore and New York have checked operations in coffee and tea, and trade is at a stand still with prices nominal. A few weeks will probably bring about a return of confidence and a disposition to operate. There is nothing new to report in other staples.

We give below the receipts of the principal articles received in this market for the past twenty-four hours:

Flour, bbls	1,710	Apples, bbls	191
Wheat, sacks	340	Cheese, bxs	621
Corn, sacks	340	Butter, pkgs	32
Oats, sacks	2,311	Bacon, tcs	169
Barley, sacks	170

We omit extended quotations, with the remark that the market is pronounced satisfactory on all hands, and trade is daily improving.

PITTSBURGH OIL TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH COMMERCIAL,
WEDNESDAY, September 25, 1872.

REMARKS.—The crude market was a shade firmer. Holders have put up the figures some 20c per barrel. Buyers, however, were shy and disposed to hold off. We quote Parker's nominally $2 95@3 ₱ bbl. No transactions were reported.

REFINED.

The market was reported quiet, without any quotable change in prices. The combination are still demanding for spot or September 23½c, with several sales reported East at that figure.

OIL BARRELS.

Market steady, with unchanged prices.

[By Western Union Line.]

TITUSVILLE, September 24.—The Herald says: The market to-day was a shade firmer, and buyers are evidently holding off in anticipation of a rise. The new movement is not without its effect upon the market, and already oil is held more firmly here; $3 05 was asked, and $3 00@3 02½ bid. At Parker's Landing the market was very dull, with little offering. We quote the following sales:

500 bbls upper creek, spot....$3 00
500 bbls upper creek, spot....3 04⅛
500 bbls lower creek, spot....2 75

NEW YORK, September 24—Closing the 23d.—Crude in bulk very quiet at 11c, without business. Refined still without animation and 23¼c asked; cases 28⅛@29c; Philadelphia delivery very dull and nominal; refined 23¼@23½c for short delivery; sales 1,500 bbls deliverable from October 1 to 20th at 23¼c; naptha, 1,500 bbls sold, deliverable up to October first at 15⅛c.

PHILADELPHIA, September 24.—Market quiet; S W, 23¼c; crude in bulk, 10½c; cases 28¼c. Sales none; futures: September 23⅛c; October 23⅛@23¼c.

ROUSEVILLE, September 24.—Market quiet and dull and quoted at about $2 90.

OIL CITY, September 24.—Market unsettled and nothing doing; Oil City $3 00@3 20; upper road $3 00; lower road $2 90@3 00.

PETROLEUM CENTER, September 24.—Market quiet; sales last night at $3 05; to-day $3 05@3 10.

TITUSVILLE, September 24.—Market dull and nothing doing; spot $3 00.

[By Pacific and Atlantic Line.]

ROUSEVILLE, September 24.—Market firmer at $2 90@2 95.

TITUSVILLE, September 24.—No market here yet; holding off; can't get prices.

Cattle.

The run of cattle this week so far, has been heavy. Advices from the East are not favorable, and buyers are holding off for lower prices. As yet, very few cattle have changed hands, in fact not enough on which to base quotations. At this writing the feeling is bad, and if the runs continue free, lower prices will undoubtedly rule. In the absence of sales we withhold quotations.

Hogs.

The run of hogs heavy. The market is dull and slow on heavy prime hogs, and very few changed hands to-day. Yesterday, buyers of stock hogs purchased liberally, but are not doing much to-day. Prices of Yorkers and prime are closer together than for some time.

PRICES.

Extra Philadelphia....$5 40
Prime....$5 25 to $5 35
Yorker....$4 75 to $4 90

Sheep.

The run of sheep this week to time of writing has been fair. The market has not opened yet, the buyers here preferring to wait for more arrivals. They are talking about purchasing at lower figures, and if the runs come heavy may succeed in doing so.

PRICES.

Extra 100 lbs. fine wool, $6 00 to $6 25; prime 95 lbs, fine wool, $5 50 to $5 75; prime 90 lbs, fine wool, $5 25 to $5 50; good 85 lbs, fine wool, $4 75 to $5 00; prime 80 lbs, fine wool, $4 25@4 75.

THE STOCK EXCHANGE.

Stocks opened dull and slightly easier than last night. The continuance of the squeeze in Erie caused general dullness during the morning. Later there was an improvement and the market was enlivened by a jump in Panama from 126⅛ to 141⅛, it being reported the shorts were to be twisted, that Panama and Pacific Mail were to be consolidated on the basis of 200 for the former and 100 for the latter, and that independent thereof there would be a scrip dividend of 50 to 75 per cent. on Panama, none of which rumors are yet authenticated. Erie is still active and the pool unbroken. Sales during the day at 54⅛@52⅛ cash, and 53½@50½ regular. The later dealings were at the lowest rates, causing the report that Daniel Drew has succeeded in the selling of his stock. About 16,000 shares were bought in under the rule for non delivery at 53⅛ to 50⅞, a marked decline from yesterday. In the general market prices fell off ⅛@½ per cent. in the morning, but recovered the decline in the afternoon on a small business, closing very strong.

MONONGAHELA metal marks, two feet six inches.

Boats to Leave To-day.

Brownsville and Geneva, U. S. M., 8 A. M. and 5 P. M.
Elizabeth....Elizabeth....Houghton, 3 P. M.

The metal marks at the foot of Wood street indicated two feet six inches and about a stand. The weather continues very warm.

THE new towboat Nelly Speer has been completed. She is a beauty and no mistake.

THE new towboat General Larimer is in a forward state and will be ready for the fall trade.

THE steamer Argosy, Capt. Flesher, will enter the Pittsburgh and Portsmouth trade on the opening of navigation in the fall.

THE steamer Jessie is making regular trips between Parkersburg and Gallipolis, and is commanded by Capt. Spencer.

CAPTAIN FAWCETT's mammoth steamer Oakland is drawing rapidly to completion. She is destined to create an excitement.

STEAMBOAT SALE.—Commodore W. J. Kountz sells ⅛ of the steamboat Andrew Ackley to F. T. Viard, and 13-24ths to H. K. Hazlett for the sum of $6,666.

THE Sunday Republican of St. Louis says: Capts. Joe Dunlevy and W. R. Massie are in Sioux City, the former from Chicago and the latter from St. Louis.

THE remains of the old gunboat Pittsburgh, lying on the bank above Cairo, were cleared up by fire the other day to make way for the track of the Vincennes railroad.

CAPT. RICHARD CALHOUN, an old time boatman, was in town yesterday, on his way from New York to Georgetown. The Captain is in the enjoyment of excellent health.

IT is reported, rumored, and on the tapis, that Captain E. A. Sheble will be elected commander of the great low pressure steamer Richmond, and that he will accept the office.

CAPT. E. A. SHEBLE, who is considered a good judge of a steamboat, remarked that the Great Republic, when she came off the ways, would be one of the best boats that ever floated.

THE Hannibal Courier of Friday says: The iron hull towboat J. G. Chapman knocked a hole in her hull in coming over the rapids, which was speedily repaired and she proceeded on her way.

WE understand that a first-class, small sidewheel steamer is nearly completed at Ironton, which is intended to run between that place and Ravenswood, West Virginia, as a passenger packet only, making three trips a week.

CAPT. DAVID CAMPBELL has concluded to fit up the Schuyler for a wrecking-boat, to take the place of the Aid recently sold to the government. About $6,000 will be expended on the Schuyler, which amount will make her one of the most effective bell boats afloat.

THE United States packets on the slackwater leave daily at 8 A. M. and 5 P. M. These boats are sidewheelers and were built expressly for the trade, and are in charge of careful and attentive officers. For further information call on the Captain, A. S. Carlile, on the wharfboat.

THE St. Louis Republican says: "We learn that the steamer S. S. Merrill was the only boat belonging to the White Collar line that was insured, and the reason of that was that Commodore Davidson insured her when she went South last winter. He is engaged in securing additional insurance."

A PRIVATE dispatch from Dubuque Saturday says the bridge across the Mississippi at that point caught fire about noon from the sparks of a passing steamer. The fire raged for over an hour, doing considerable damage, but luckily not interfering with the working of the draw. Captain Harry Dohrman, formerly agent of the Carter line at Cincinnati, was due last Saturday at St. Louis.

A GOOD APPOINTMENT.—Our shippers generally recognize the fact that "Com." Wm. J. Kountz is a far-seeing man. His boats are built in a peculiar style; he runs them peculiarly; and his general management is such as to excite confidence. One of the greatest peculiarities is the selection of his employees. In this he is always correct, and he has proven this fully by his selection of Capt. E. A. Sheble as Superintendent of the "Kountz Line." With John King as agent and Sheble as superintendent, the line should be a success.—St. Louis Journal.

THE following steamers have been sunk by snags, roots and stumps on the Upper Mississippi, since 1853: S. B. Arago, total loss; West Newton, total loss; Nominee, total loss; Lady Franklin, total loss; Burlington, total loss; Royal Arch, total loss; Fanny Harris, total loss; Clara Hines, total loss; Rosela, total loss; Frank Steele, total loss; Flora, raised; Northern Belle, raised; War Eagle, raised; Excelsior, raised; Golden Era, raised; Itasca, raised; Molly Morey, raised; Natrona, raised; A. L. Gregorie, ferryboat, raised. The number of barges that have been snagged and sunk is too numerous to mention.

ST. LOUIS.—The Sunday Globe says: The rapid decline of the river has not been checked. For the last twenty-four hours it has fallen full four inches. Our steamboat men, however, accept the situation, and load accordingly. We may now look for the lowest water, hence to Cairo, that has been for years. The Equinoctial time has come and passed, and no rain has fallen. The channel depth is now as good as it can be, and every inch of fall here, will make it doubly less in the channel.

The weather was very warm yesterday. The Equinoctial storm has not arrived, and unless it is accompanied with rain, we hope it will not come.

Business was very brisk yesterday, it being the last day of the week. Every boat leaving was crowded.

THE St. Louis Democrat contains the following additional particulars of the Merrill disaster: "Buchanan and Murphy, pilots of the Merrill, arrived yesterday from the scene of the disaster. They assert that it was impossible to subdue the flames. The patent fire extinguishers proved of no avail, as the fire spread too rapidly to admit of their successful use. The amount of freight lost was 200 bales hay and 800 sacks grain. The baggage and a portion of the cabin furniture, including the piano, was saved; also the live stock and the boat's books and papers. The origin of the fire remains a mystery. It is asserted that a cabin boy lay in his berth reading with a cigar in his mouth; that he fell asleep, and the fire originated from the cigar.

WE copy the following from the Sioux City Journal, of the 18th inst.:

The Miner left for the Crossing early yesterday morning.

Nothing has been heard from the Nellie Peck or Peninah.

The Far West could not get away yesterday on account of scarcity of help for loading. She will leave for the Crossing early this morning with 240 tons of government stores.

The Esperanza will be detained here to furnish transportation for one hundred recruits for the Seventeenth Infantry at Fort Randall, who are expected here from New York on Saturday.

The steamer Western passed Fort Sully yesterday morning at 6:30 on her way down, having on board Lieutenant General Sheridan and party. The boat is expected here about Friday morning.

The Hiram Wood did not get away yesterday, but is announced for departure this evening, without fail. Capt. Jestice relinquishes command of the boat, and is succeeded by Capt. J. C. Waddell, a well known and popular river man.

VINCENNES RAILROAD,

Is the shortest line between Chicago and the BLOCK COAL region of Indiana. The importance and success of the Road is proved by the fact that since its being opened to coal traffic in January last, it has earned a handsome dividend upon its stock, beside interest on its bonds.

The First Mortgage 7 per cent. Gold Bonds, issued by this Company, to an amount of less than $19,000 per mile, have been sold very rapidly during the past few months to Trust Companies, Savings Banks, and the most careful investors. Only a small amount of the loan remains unsold.

The Bonds are for $1,000 each, and have thirty years to run. Interest payable April and October. Present price 90 and accrued interest. At present premium on gold they pay nearly 9 per cent. upon the investment.

GREELEY.

Spread Eagle Speech at Hamilton Ohio.

Again Explains His Secession Views---Corrected Version of His Vicksburg Speech.

CLEVELAND, September 24.—Mr. Greeley spoke as follows at Hamilton, Ohio:

Men of Ohio—I bear you joyful greetings from the people of Indiana. I have looked into their clear eyes. I have seen the light of heaven reflected from their honest faces, and I tell you that as well as I can read men I have read them, and feel assured that on the night of the eighth of October next they will send forth a majestic voice on the side of national reconciliation. The great Liberal wave now sweeping over the country is destined to efface all distinctions of race and all past bitterness, and to wipe out all this we will scarcely find anywhere a heartier response than from that people. Last night not less than fifty thousand of them met us at Indianapolis, to say that so far as the State was concerned they speak in no equivocal voice. They are with you, they are for you, Liberals of Ohio, and of all other States, in declaring that strife having ceased hatred shall cease, proscription shall cease, disfranchisement shall cease, and the whole American people, united under one flag and animated by one patriotic impulse, shall march forward once more in that career of greatness and prosperity planned and prepared for them by our revolutionary fathers. [Applause.] Those fathers, when we were but thirteen little states scattered along the Atlantic border, appropriately called themselves the Continental army. The Continental army! That was the army which fought the battles of the Revolution. Though our country then covered but a narrow strip of the Atlantic sea-board, yet in spirit and aspiration the American eagle looked over this whole broad land and said, "This is all mine; this shall all be watered and planted by the people who acknowledge my ascendancy." So, friends, we are resolved not merely that we shall be united in geography, that there shall be one government from Texas to Maine and to Oregon, but that there shall be one willing, joyful, cordial, united people, [applause] not pinned together by bayonets, not stricken down and held prostrate by force, but all of them, North and South, East and West, rejoicing that they are Americans, and that one flag covers them all, one law rules them all, that one country embraces and enfolds them all. [Applause.] We can't hate each other forever; we cannot keep raking up stories of Andersonville, Salisbury, and Libby prisons, to make this people hostile in heart to those who live below the Ohio river. We shall learn at last, we shall come at last to be one people. Why not now? Seven years ago the last shot was fired. Seven years and more ago the last Confederate flag was surrendered or furled, and still we go on holding conventions, military conventions, to emphasize and aggrandize the triumph of a part over another part. I rejoice in that coming triumph of the whole nation when the people of the South shall say to the people of the North, "We rejoice that our country was not divided, that our mistaken efforts to have a Southern Confederacy were defeated. We at last find it was our destiny and our blessing to be a part of the great American people." So the South will say the time shall be when the State of Ohio shall rejoice as heartily as you can rejoice that slavery has passed away forever. They will feel that a great chain was lifted from their necks, the shackles were broken which bound their limbs, when 4,000,000 of American people were liberated and made citizens of this country where they had formerly been slaves. They all yet realize that Virginia and the Carolinas and Georgia shall be richer and nobler, freer and purer, than they would have been so long as part of their people were held in bondage. They will realize that what was their weakness has, through emancipation, become their strength, and they will rejoice that nothing now remains to mar the unity or cloud the destiny of our country and their country.

So, then, fellow citizens, having asked of them to surrender secession and abandon slavery, to enfranchise their colored fellow citizens, we did everything reasonable and proper to make our triumph perfect. Now we say, and they say, let hatred and bitterness, let contention and jealousy perish forever. Let us forget that we have fought, let us remember only that we have made peace, let us say that there will be no degradation, no people over whom we triumph. Our triumph is their triumph. Our triumph is the uplifting of every one of the common platforms of American liberty and American nationality. Our triumph is not the triumph of a section. It is not the triumph of a race. It is not the triumph of a class. It is the triumph of the American people, casting off the shackles that bind some presently, and all ultimately, breaking down a wall or partition that separated us, and going on to make us all in life in heart and in purpose the people, the one people of the great American Republic.

Fellow-citizens, to this work of reconciliation I dedicate myself. For this purpose I would not feel it was a triumph for me to be chosen your President, if any part of the American people should have a right to feel that my triumph was their degradation. I believe the triumph of the Liberal cause will be the triumph of the States—that there is no county in the Union which will not be better worth living on and more valuable because we have so acted, so appealed, so been responded to by the American people—that there are no longer lines of separation and alienation to divide us. To this end I have struggled since the last cannon shot was fired in the war of secession and disunion. To this end I have hoped and aspired. This end seems to be not far distant. People of Ohio, I entreat you so to act, so to speak, so to vote, that every one shall feel on the evening of the 8th of next month, that he has taken a manful part towards the reconciliation of the whole American people to their government, and toward the upbuilding, the perfection, the rounding out of this American Republican nationality.

Another Speech at Dayton.

Mr. Greeley also made a speech at Dayton, in the course of which he again explained his views on secession:

At Pittsburgh last Thursday evening I saw fit to explain the condition and circumstances under which I was induced, in the winter of 1860 and '61, to propose that in preference to giving up the territories to slavery on the one hand and the country to war and devastation on the other, I for one would submit. I said to the disunionists: You claim to be the South. I deny that the great mass of the people living in the Southern States desire to break up this great and glorious Union. Now I asked you to let us come before this people, discuss the question, tell them that the Union is as it is, and what it does for them as well as for us, and let them decide by their votes, when there has been no blood shed, whether they would stay with us or go away, and I will respect their decision. I said then what I believed to be true, and I say it now, after looking it all over, that between the peril of losing the Union in a bloody civil war, and losing the Union by the vote of the Southern people, the former peril was very much the greater.

Referring to his Vicksburg speech, he said: I find myself credited with saying at Vicksburg last year, that "I hope the time will come when the soldiers who fought with Lee and Jackson will occupy as proud a position in the hearts of the American people as the soldiers who fought with Grant and Sherman." No such words as these ever escaped my lips. No such thought was ever filled my heart. What I did say, speaking of that war-wasted, heart-broken people is this: That I trusted the day would come when the soldierly qualities and military genius of Lee and Stonewall Jackson would be regarded as part of the heritage of the American people; that they would be spoken of as American soldiers, who, though in a cause which I think a bad cause, illustrated the military capacity, the genius and the energy of the American people. For after all, fellow citizens, they were our countrymen, our mistaken countrymen, our misguided countrymen, our bravely but fatally erring countrymen.

At Cleveland.

Mr. Greeley arrived at Cleveland at 9:20 and made another speech, going over the same ground.

CITY MATTERS.

SOUTH PITTSBURGH COUNCIL.

Special Meeting Last Night.

Last night the Council of South Pittsburgh held a special meeting. Members present: Messrs. Slicker, Cready, Haines, Kerr and Burgess Murray in the chair.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

On motion warrants were ordered to be drawn for bills amounting to $343 12.

The Street Commissioner reported the receipt of $50 00 from Messrs. Meirs & Pillow, contractors. On motion the amount was handed over to the Treasurer.

The bill of Keiler & Co. for paving Sixth street was presented and referred to the Street Committee with power to act.

The Burgess was authorized to employ extra police on such occasion as he may deem necessary to keep order in the borough.

On motion the Burgess was instructed to draw a warrant for the purpose of paying the balance due on the hose house lot, with the accrued interest thereon.

On motion adjourned.

BIRMINGHAM COUNCIL.

Special Meeting Last Night.

The Council of Birmingham held a special meeting last evening.

Members present, Messrs. Doyle, Conway, Schwarm, Duncan, Ziefell and Miller, with Burgess Salisbury in the chair.

On motion, the reading of the minutes of the last meeting was dispensed with.

The meeting was called for the purpose of considering the matter of straightening and extending Water street from Tenth to Sixth streets, as the citizens owning property along the line favored the measure.

On motion of Mr. Schwarm, the whole question was referred to the Wharf Committee, to prepare an ordinance in proper form, to be presented at the next meeting.

The Burgess then stated that he had been asked to have a petition drawn up for the purpose of changing the market hours, as the butchers are somewhat opposed to the present hours, and desire to have the market house open until nine o'clock in the evening, instead of six, as at present.

After some discussion, the matter was referred to the Market Committee.

On motion adjourned.

PUBLIC AMUSEMENTS.

Pittsburgh Opera House.

The engagement of Mr. John Collins at this house is proving a highly successful one. The gentlemen's new sensation, "Paul Clifford," is an exceedingly interesting drama of the kind, and as it is full of music, a very pleasant hour or two can be passed in witnessing it. Mr. Collins sings no less than six songs during the rendition of the drama, while there are several excellent choruses sung by the company. "Paul Clifford" will be repeated this evening, and with it the amusing farce, "The Irish Attorney," in which Mr. Collins personates Pierce O'Hara in his own inimitable style. Seats should be secured at the box office during the day.

Aims's American Theater.

The torchlight procession by the ladies, the performances of Rice and Welch's minstrels, the dancing of the corps de ballet, and the many other attractions at this house, draw excellent houses nightly. The management is to be commended for the excellent manner in which the entertainments at this house are conducted, and also Mr. Fitzsimmons, the popular director of amusements. A good bill this evening.

Trimble's Varieties.

Messrs. Gardiner and Trimble are succeeding admirably in pleasing the patrons of this house. Laughable and entertaining performances are given nightly. A number of new features are announced for this evening, when another rousing house may be anticipated.

A Wedding.

Last evening there was a very happy affair came off in the Third Presbyterian Church—we refer to the marriage of Mr. Geo. W. Biggs, the well known jeweler, to Miss Hattie Hill. The ceremony took place in the lecture room of the church, and was performed by the Rev. Noble, the pastor. The groom was clad in the regulation suit, while the bride wore a neat traveling silk of ashes of roses, in two shades, and a pretty Alpine hat. There were about two hundred ladies and gentlemen, friends of the happy couple, present, who wished them every success in their journey through life. Mr. and Mrs. Biggs departed on a pleasure tour on the 7:20 P. M. train east, shortly after their marriage.

Another Habeas Corpus.

In the Common Pleas, yesterday, George Green filed an application for a writ of habeas corpus, for the purpose of recovering the custody of his two children, Georgetta, aged ten years, and William, aged six years, who, he alleges, are illegally restrained of their liberty by Josiah Cornelius. The Court granted the writ, requiring Mr. Cornelius to produce the children in Court on Saturday morning next at ten o'clock.

ANOTHER RALLY.

Meeting at City Hall—Mr. Storrs Fails to Arrive—Remarks of Hon. Joseph Walton—Speech by Gen. Henry O'Connor.

There was a large turn out at City Hall, last night, to hear the Hon. E. A. Storrs, of Chicago, but in this respect the audience was disappointed, inasmuch as Mr. Storrs, for some reason unknown, did not arrive. Maj. Montooth chairman of the Committee on Meetings, not having heard from Mr. Storrs during the evening, and fearing that he might not reach the city, prevailed upon Gen. Henry O'Connor, of Iowa—who is in the city for the purpose of filling an appointment for to-morrow night, at the corner of Fulton and Webster streets—to deliver an address. The General was escorted to the hall by the Second ward Marching Club, headed by an excellent brass band.

The meeting was called to order by Joseph M. Gazzam, Esq., who announced the following list of officers:

President—Hon. Joseph Walton.

Vice Presidents—Josiah King, Josiah Cohen, H. M. Long, Thomas M. Howe, Richard Edwards, Frank Weyman, William Thaw, James Orr, John Brown, Beverly Jones, Wm. F. Robb, Wm. W. Lindsay, Thos. Palmer.

REMARKS OF MR. WALTON.

The Hon. Joseph Walton, on taking the chair, was greeted with applause, and spoke as follows:

Fellow Citizens—The elections now so close at hand are of unusual importance. Executives and legislators of the State and nation are to be chosen. The choice of these belongs to the people, and is the most sacred right they possess, for their freedom depends on the manner of its exercise. To preserve a popular government, requires perpetual vigilance; its administrators must be watched with jealous eyes, and their measures scanned with distrustful caution.

Short official terms have been wisely provided, at the end of which public servants may be held to a strict accountability for their stewardship, and the affairs of state be kept in trustworthy hands. Party organizations, to concentrate the judgment of individuals and give efficiency to their decisions, seem to be the only method of instituting sound public policy and providing competent agents for its faithful administration. Thus the party in power, its principles and its candidates are all before the voters to be examined and weighed, that their true merits may be ascertained, and the character of their claims to continued confidence be proven, whether sound or defective. The government of this country has been under the control of the Republican party since the 4th of March, 1861. Under its rule stirring events, affecting the condition of humanity, of the greatest import the world ever saw, have occurred. A revolt, vast in its proportions, against the constituted authorities of the country has been successfully encountered and overthrown, or, in other words, a bloody and devastating civil war, involving the destruction of myriads of lives and the waste of thousands of millions of property has been fought through from the beginning to a triumphant end—a war, which by preserving the integrity of the nation, secures against future wars and the oppression of keeping up those standing armies, that are so exhausting to the resources of the nations of Europe and such irresistible instruments of despotic power. Consequential to this terrible convulsion four millions of bondmen have been set free, and introduced into the great body of American citizenship. By a financial system intertwined with and bolstering the public credit, the enormous war expenditures have produced no business revulsion or social distress, while a currency elastic and uniform in its value, too ingeniously wrought to be counterfeited supplies a safe circulating medium equally current and convenient in all the States and Territories.

Agriculture, commerce and manufactures are all in a prosperous condition, making the reward of labor and the profits of capital liberal and satisfactory.

The rights of citizens at home are amply protected, and abroad our country ranks among the first class powers of the world, and its citizens and its flag are universally respected. It is on such a proud basis that the foundations of the power of the Republican party are laid, to which may be added our system of wise and equitable laws, enforcing enlarged constitutional rights and the efficient processes which have been adopted for the preservation of national credit and the payment of the public debt.

No political organization in our country has been equally fortunate. Success has marked its career from 1861 to the present moment. In all that time though dealing with the most momentous affairs no mistaken policy or evil counsels have darkened its record or injured the public interests. Equally fortunate in the selection of its agents, who, with slight exceptions, have been faithful co-operators in delivering the nation from its perils and concerting the measures which are exalting its greatness.

Lincoln and Grant, seconded by the patriotism of the land, were its able instruments in preserving from threatened destruction the republic, established by Washington and his compeers. The preservers were actuated by the same high motives and underwent the same toils and anxieties as the founders. And now, after this brief recital of its leading deeds, the question naturally arises what possible advantage can be derived from the overthrow of the Republican party, which has so triumphantly approved the wisdom of its course, and placing the reins of government in the hands of its opponents, composed of a disorganized multitude, whose chosen leader is, and ever has been, a visionary theorist, troubling the country with wild schemes, strange acts and absurd recommendations. This is no time for experimenting. The country is moving onward prosperously. Government is doing all it can for the people; its measures are wise and salutary. Can our opponents suggest any better? Do they pretend to do so? Would there be either wisdom or prudence in abandoning the present public measures, which are so clearly promoting the general good, and upsetting a system which commands universal confidence, and gives steadiness to all the great business operations of the country, and giving the shaping of affairs to inexperienced pretenders, who lack concert and steadiness? Would not such a revolution be making a common sport of the fortunes and liberties of the people? It is an old and safe maxim to "let well enough alone." General Grant is a well-tried public servant honest and capable, and, like Jefferson, Jackson, and Lincoln, libelled and abused by his opponents.

He, too, should be re-elected. He is "well enough," and the country needs his services for another term. It is our duty, therefore, to "let him alone," and keep him where he is. There is no danger of his inflicting upon the nation any of the vague schemes of a dreaming philosopher. We want no wild experiments in place of salutary certainties.

And so we may say of our State nominees for Governor, Congressmen and legislators. Most of them are tried public servants and known to be worthy of the trusts intended to be committed to them. There is no other course for us but to rally for the ticket if we would save the Republican party and keep the country on the safe track, where it is now steadily moving onward and upward. We can all cheerfully vote the whole ticket from Grant down, knowing it to be the best one before the people, and that its success is essential to the continued prosperity and happiness of the nation. [Applause.]

Mr. Walton then introduced General Henry O'Connor, of Iowa, who was welcomed with enthusiastic applause. The General made a very eloquent address, which was well received, and, although there was considerable disappointment at not hearing Mr. Storrs, every one in the audience was gratified that it had been their good fortune to hear General O'Connor, of whose speech we append a brief synopsis:

SPEECH OF HENRY O'CONNOR.

After a few introductory remarks, he said, this contest has assumed some curious aspects. It has, on the part of our opponents, been admitted to be an entirely personal one, and that, let me say, is the highest compliment the Democrats in this country, or the growlers of our own party, could pay to Republican principles, to the Republican organization. These principles, in 1860, met with nothing but sneers and ridicule from the men, North and South, without exception, who are now attempting to pull down the banner that Grant held up for four years during our late struggle. Those principles were triumphant then. The administration that was elected in 1868 was carried on on those principles. The present incumbent of the highest office in the world, the President of the United States, now the worst maligned and abused man in the civilized world, has not attempted to deviate from those principles. Are you not a little proud of the position our party and our principles have acquired?

We are quite willing to go into the fight, although the issue has been made a personal one. We have nothing to fear in the examination of the conduct of the man who now fills the highest position in the world. We have nothing to fear by an examination of his record. I shall not detain you by going into a comparison of the fitness of the two candidates for this office. It is the right in this country of a party in the minority, after a trial of twelve years, to require an examination of the record of the party in power.

GRANT'S INAUGURAL.

Go back to the year 1869, when Grant was inaugurated. In his inaugural address there is no allusion to politics. No one could tell by reading it to what party he belonged. "I have no policy to urge against the will of the people. The debt must be paid." To the young men who will rule the country twenty-five years hence he said, "This question of maintaining the nation's integrity is of the utmost importance. Every dollar of the national debt, contracted for such holy purposes should be paid in coin unless the contract specified a different payment. If any public servants are found wanting in character, they must be removed." This was said at a time when the five-twenty bonds were issued. European capitalists would not subscribe to our loan then, but the bonds were purchased by the people in our own country, not by the rich alone but also by the poor. Those who had sons in the army or brothers in the field also purchased bonds. If it had not been for these purchases our armies would have to be disbanded. At that time for nine long months our soldiers had not seen the face of the paymaster. This was the debt that the Republican party in 1868 said should be paid.

I ask you, has he not redeemed all the pledges he made in his short inaugural? Has not the debt been reduced gradually? The Democrats prophesied that in two years the country would be bankrupt; but instead of this we have in three years reduced the principal of the national debt about three hundred and fifty millions of dollars. Ah, says my Democratic friends, while that has been done the people have been crushed to the earth with taxation. Have not the taxes also been greatly reduced? Three years ago one hundred and thirty-three articles were taxed, but on the 1st of October next this number will be reduced to three. It is true, our Democratic friends will say, these three include some of the necessaries of life, tobacco and whisky, [laughter], but these are considered luxuries by the present administration. They will tell you that the Republican party were forced to reduce the taxes. The pressure from the Democratic masses of the country, from reformers like Fenton and men of that class, compelled the Republican party to reduce the taxes. When the vote on this question in June, 1870, was taken one hundred and forty-seven Republicans and nine Democrats voted for the reduction of taxation, and forty-nine Democrats and seven Republicans voted against it. [Applause.] Now, tell me, my Democratic friends, why are you not more specific? You talk about reform, and yet forty-nine Democrats voted in favor of keeping the burdens still on the people. These facts are stubborn things. [Applause.]

THE CAMPAIGN A PERSONAL ONE.

This campaign is entirely personal say our opponents. Your principles are all right. We accept them, but we want you to get rid of that man Grant. That great and greatly angry man, who has just left us and gone across the waters, Charles Sumner, took occasion to say a word—a word that is an insult to three fifths, I may say four-fifths of the people in the Southern States. What was it? "Grant in the White House is a standing menace against reconciliation. He holds up the red flag of oppression to freemen in the Republic." I ask you, men of Allegheny county, how is it that a soldier, a volunteer, a citizen, a man who has been true to the country, should be a menace against reconciliation. First of all, why all this talk about reconciliation? Who must be reconciled? Are we not reconciled now? Does not the stars and stripes float over forty millions of freemen? Are not the Republicans of the South and the Republicans of the North brethren to-day, and are not the men who shouted for Greeley at Cincinnati, at Baltimore, in Texas, or the red handed rebels and the sne king traitors all over the land, are not these brethren? I do not see then who is to be reconciled. There is no need of reconciliation. There is but one way of reconciliation, and which is open to all, and that is to kiss the flag and swear eternal allegiance to it. (Applause.) If you are to remove that soldier from the White House, can you stop there! You must go on and remove Gen. Noyes, who has only one leg, from the Governorship of Ohio. You must remove Lucius Fairchild, of Virginia, who has only one arm, and that is not enough. You must go into every county in Pennsylvania and remove from your court houses, your recorders, your treasurers, who have been good soldiers, for they are all standing menaces to the country. Are you ready to do that? (Cries of No! No!)

I am not here to talk State politics, but I will say that the trouble with Hartranft is, according to our Democratic friends, that he was too good a soldier. I met a man in Iowa who hails from your State, and asked him, what is all this talk about Hartranft? He said, I would not believe a thousand affidavits if they came to me concerning his dishonesty. No man who fought in the field as he did could be a thief. That settled the matter with me. [Applause.]

But this is not all. You had a distinguished gentleman, who is a candidate for the highest office in the country, Greeley, as your visitor, a few nights since. What was the burden of his song? He said you had, day before yesterday, a gathering of military men for the purpose of reviving all those hostile feelings which we are trying to obliterate. Is it possible we have come to this? Can you realize this, boys? Those of you who went hungry for forty-eight hours, and who made such long and weary marches. Has it come to this that you cannot come from your workshop, from your office, from your farm to a convention to express your sentiments or your ideas in the affairs of your country, without being upbraided because you are soldiers.

I will now say a few words on this personal issue. Greeley is the candidate of every party in this country, except the right one. [Laughter.] He will probably carry Texas if they vote. [Renewed laughter.] I don't know any other State he will carry. He was going to carry Iowa, a little while ago, but I just came from there and I can say that he will not get this State. She gave Fremont 10,000 majority, and Lincoln a majority of 30,000. In 1864 the majority was 40,000, and in 1868 Grant received a majority of 41,000. But I can say, knowing the American population, and the Irish and German population who are all following Schurz, that Iowa will give at least a majority of 50,000. [Prolonged applause.] The election comes off too early. If it would only be delayed until the corn is all gathered, we would make the election almost unanimous. [Renewed applause.] I said Greeley was the candidate of our opponents. I do not know what to call them, as they are composed of Liberals, Democrats, copperheads, rebels, straight-outs, etc. I have learned considerably from Greeley through his writings. I got my early Whig doctrines from him. I remember in 1844 when he taught me something of American labor. Talk to me about the oppression of the tariff that protects American industry. Talk to me about the farmer because he pays fifteen dollars or more a year for the articles he purchases, when the very men that are protected by that tariff, are the men who make a market for them. Greeley in 1844 was a leader in this question. In 1848 he was an abolitionist. In 1856 he was the leader for John C. Fremont. In 1860 he still upheld the banner, because of the principles that were inscribed upon it. In 1864, growling, he still maintained the same principles. In 1868, with more seeming heartiness than ever before, he hoisted the banner of Republicanism and fought as he could fight, like a soldier of ability. Grant was the man of all others that ought to be put at the helm of affairs. But, on the other hand, forty years of eccentricity is all the record that Greeley can present to the American people. And yet, in the face of his new doctrine, in the face of his own life, he remits in his letter of acceptance, the question of protective industry to the Congressional districts. Why not to the town councils, to the magistrates or the constables. What has Congressional districts, as districts, to do with national legislation.

The speaker again alluded to the question of reconciliation. He said he was in favor of reconciliation when any Northern citizen could move in any of the Southern States, and live in peace, in the enjoyment of all his rights as an American citizen. He had no patience with those who talked about being reconciled to cut-throats, to members of the Ku Klux organization, to the violators of the South, but as soon as they become peaceable citizens he would be reconciled toward them. The speaker now alluded in brief to the history of Gen. Grant from the time he entered the army, and recounted his valiant deeds during the war. He then said that the object of the copperheads, the rebels, etc., was not to elect Greeley but to get rid of Grant. The speaker then closed his remarks by saying that the battle which will be fought on the Eighth of October will be as decisive as was the battle of Antietam. He felt confident that the State ticket would be successful.

At the conclusion of his remarks, the meeting adjourned with three cheers for the National and State tickets.

A Broken Rail.

Yesterday morning an accident, which came near being attended with fatal results, occurred on the Pittsburgh, Washington and Baltimore railroad. The Confluence accommodation train, coming west, ran off the track at Round Bottom Curve, one and a half miles east of Layton's Station. The engine, tender and baggage car were badly damaged, and two laborers, employed on the road, and riding on the platform of the baggage car at the time of the accident, were knocked off and suffered severe but not fatal injuries. Mr. Cartwright, chief car inspector, was also hurt slightly in the back. The accident is attributed to a broken rail.

THE NEXT TORCHLIGHT.

The Coming Display—Some Suggestions—Meeting of Club Captains Called, &c., &c.

The coming torchlight procession promises to eclipse in grandeur and extent any of its predecessors. Arrangements are in progress of completion, looking to a grand display by all the clubs of the North and South Sides, and those of this city. The formation will likely take place around the Allegheny Parks, and from there the column will proceed, via Ohio street and Western avenue, to the southwestern portion of the city. It is then proposed to return, by another route, to the Suspension bridge, and via Sixth street, Market street, Fifth avenue, Wood and Water streets, march to the Monongahela bridge and over to the South Side; thence up Carson street to Ormsby borough, and then back to this city, the clubs to be dismissed when the head of the column has reached the vicinity of Liberty and Sixth street. If the proposed route is adopted, it will give the citizens of Allegheny and the South Side, some idea of the numbers and material forming our Republican marching clubs, and also take the column over a route, the greater portion of which has been wholly neglected thus far by all the processions.

The Republican County Executive Committee, at its meeting, yesterday, resolved to aid the proposed procession in every manner possible, and also issued a call for a meeting of the captains of all the clubs, to be held at the Lincoln club rooms on next Thursday evening with a view to harmonious action and the election of a chief marshal. Let every captain attend the meeting and use his best endeavors to harmonize matters, and make the coming display the crowning event of the campaign.

Meeting in Allegheny.

Last evening the captains of the several Republican marching clubs of Allegheny city, and a number of captains of clubs in this city and the South Side, convened for the purpose of making arrangements for a torchlight procession to take place next week. John Megraw was called to the chair and Joseph R. Oxley elected Secretary. It was agreed that the procession should consist of clubs from both cities and the South Side, and not of Allegheny alone as was first proposed. It was decided to have four divisions, two from Allegheny, and one each from Pittsburgh and the South Side.

The following marshals were then appointed: J. E. B. Dalzell, Chief Marshal of Allegheny Division; Mr. Megraw was appointed Marshal of that part of the Allegheny Division composed of clubs east of Federal street, and Wm. W. Parker of clubs on the west side. Messrs. Drum, McKelvey, Oxley, McNeil and Jennings were appointed a committee to confer with the captains of the several clubs to arrange details of procession. The meeting then adjourned.

COURT PROCEEDINGS.

Court of Quarter Sessions—Judge Collier.

The jury in the case of P. and J. McCabe, charged with highway robbery, failed to agree and were discharged.

In the case of Louis Mueller, of Homestead, reported on trial yesterday, on a charge of keeping a disorderly house, the jury found a verdict of not guilty, and directed the prosecutor, Andrew Harper, to pay the costs.

Frederick Lones was tried on an indictment charging him with the larceny of a silver watch valued at $25, from the person of Henry Fairman, who was sitting on the steps of a public building in Temperanceville. The jury found a verdict of guilty, but recommended the defendant to the mercy of the Court. The Court sentenced the defendant to the Workhouse for six months.

A nolle pros. was allowed in the case of Charles Buckley, charged with assault and battery, on payment of costs by the prosecutrix.

A nolle pros. was issued in the case of the Commonwealth vs. Levi Underwood, the costs being paid by the defendant.

W. B. Pafferty was then arraigned on a charge of aggravated assault and battery, preferred by Sarah Lenkard. The difficulty out of which this prosecution grew occurred nearly a year ago, and the facts need not be repeated. The case was not concluded at adjournment.

United States District Court—Judge McCandless.

The Narragansett Steamship Company, of Providence, R. I., filed a petition for adjudication in bankruptcy against the Glenwood Coal Company, of Pennsylvania. The usual order issued. Amount involved is $5,660.

The first named company is represented by Jay Gould, of New York, he having signed the petition for said company.

The Democratic Stand in Allegheny.

The Committee on City Property of Allegheny Councils convened last evening in the City Building. A member stated that on account of the meeting held the previous evening by the Democrats in the Third ward square, the grass had been ruined, as the stand had been so erected as to face the grass plots. A resolution was then introduced that to prevent further damage to the park, the Mayor be directed to have both the Democratic and Republican stands removed. It was held that although no damage would result from meetings being held by the Republicans at their own stand, on account of it being properly located, it would be policy to prevent ill feeling, to have both stands removed. The resolution was adopted. The contract for remodelling City Hall was awarded to Messrs. Dalzell, Park & Co., for $2,505. A resolution was also introduced, asking Council to have the necessary repairs done at the Friendship Engine House.

Charge of Forgery.

Information has been made before Alderman Humbert, charging James Lowry, Jr., ex-Mayor, with forgery. The note on which the suit is brought is drawn for six hundred dollars, and purports to have been indorsed by James Rees. The note was presented for negotiation by Mr. Lowry in person, and Mr. Rees pronounces his signature a forgery. The information was made on behalf of the bank at which the note was discounted. A warrant was issued for Mr. Lowry's arrest, but he is reported to have left the city. It is said that there are other notes afloat, amounting to several thousand dollars, with forged indorsements. The efforts made to secure the bank, and save a prosecution, have not been successful, and the matter will now have to go before the courts for investigation.

Naturalization Papers.

The several courts of the county, as well as the United States Courts, have been doing a brisk business for the past few weeks, in issuing naturalization papers. The Democrats are all naturalized in the United States Courts, while the Republicans are made citizens in the County Courts. Up to date, the number naturalized is as follows: County Courts, first papers, 168; second papers, 381. United States Courts, first papers, 12; second papers, 95.

CITY MATTERS IN BRIEF.

THERE were only thirty-one cases before the Mayor yesterday morning.

THE funeral services of the late John Kane, at the Cathedral, yesterday, were very impressive.

THE Veteran Legion of Allegheny county, organized yesterday, promises to become an important body.

IT is reported that Willemyer is the name of the proprietress of the house where the cutting affray occurred last night.

THERE will be a meeting of the members of the bar at two o'clock this afternoon to take appropriate action in relation to the death of John Mellon, Esq.

THE Ordinance Committee of Councils will recommend the passage of an ordinance forbidding the erection of any hoisting apparatus over any public footway, street or alley.

THE Imperial Building and Loan Association, of the Twenty-ninth ward, Pittsburgh, has applied to the court of Common Pleas for a charter and a preliminary order has been granted.

JUSTICE HEISEL, of Birmingham, issued a warrant yesterday for the arrest of William Wolf, charged by August Nix with perjury. It is alleged that defendant falsely swore that Nix had stolen a keg of beer.

THE District Court yesterday granted an injunction in the case of Robinson's heirs vs. Mrs. Simpson's agent, restraining him from removing the party wall adjoining the St. Clair Hotel property on Penn avenue.

THE Second ward club, which was out on parade last night, did some excellent marching under command of Captain John B. Gill. This club is one of the best drilled organizations in the city.

THE CHOICE of the Pittsburgh marching clubs and those of the South Side, for marshal of the next torch-light procession, will most probably be Gen. J. B. Sweitzer. No more popular or competent officer could be selected.

AT Mayor Blackmore's hearing yesterday morning, Wm. Grey was sentenced to the Workhouse for ninety days, for vagrancy and drunkenness. James Woods, for disorderly conduct, was awarded a month's vacation.

REV. L. NAUMBURG, whose name was used as Vice President of the Liberal meeting in Allegheny, on Monday night, has published a card in which he says: "I am, as I have always been, in favor of Grant Republicanism."

HENRY DILL yesterday filed an application for divorce from his wife Susannah, on the ground that she was the lawful wife of William Lewellyn when he (Dill) married her—a fact he has subsequently ascertained. Subpœna awarded.

THE Welsh glee clubs, under the direction of Profs. Lewis and Jones, were especially thanked yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the Resident Soldiers and Sailors' Committee for the excellent vocal music furnished by them at the late Convention.

A LARGE manufacturing establishment, recently organized in Beaver county, employs forty-two voters, every one of whom will vote for Grant and Wilson. There are among them several Democrats, but they say they look upon Grant as a better Democrat than Greeley, as he at one time belonged to their party, while Greeley never did.

TO-MORROW evening the residents of the Ninth ward, Allegheny, McClure township, and vicinity, are requested to meet in the Ninth ward public school house for the purpose of taking measures to secure the extension of the Pittsburgh, Allegheny and Manchester Passenger Railway, to Wood's Run.

THE application of John Rufus for a writ of habeas corpus to release his son, Valentine Rufus, from further service in the regular army, owing to irregularities in his enlistment, was disposed of yesterday by Judge McCandless, who refused the petition and directed that Rufus be remanded to his regiment.

DR. REITER'S horse and buggy were stolen last night from in front of his residence by a couple of boys, named respectively McCallister and Jones. The lads drove out to East Liberty, and on their return trip were recognized by a partner of the Doctor's, who promptly had them arrested. They were committed to the lock-up and will probably go to the House of Refuge.

WILLIE H., an energetic youth of sixteen, who engages in various trades whereby to accumulate money, which, like a good boy, he carries home to his mother, had about sixteen dollars worth of Greeley and Brown badges stolen from him by men and boys marching in the Democratic procession Monday night. They not only robbed him of his badges, but caught him on the Monongahela bridge and gave him a severe beating. "Next."

Magnificent Suburban Residence, Adjoining Allegheny City on New Brighton Road.

See McIlwaine's auction advertisement for particulars of this very attractive and beautiful property, in McClure township, on New Brighton road, a short distance beyond Uniondale cemetery and the residence of Sheriff Fleming, within ten minutes walk from Pleasant Valley car station, and same distance from Superior station, on the Fort Wayne Railroad. It is one of the finest situations, commanding beautiful views and planted with young fruit trees and shrubbery.

A Word to the Ladies.

Now is the time when you all ask the question, what are they going to wear, and what is the style this fall? Go to Morganstern & Co.'s, 78 and 80 Market street, and see the numerous and fashionable assortment of goods. Constant and daily arrivals. This house continues to retain the old reputation of keeping the most fashionable as well as the best assortment of goods in the city at prices that cannot be surpassed. Large lot of goods just received. New shoulder and neck scarfs, new guipure tidies, the inflatable bustle, wide guipure laces, Hamburg flouncing, felt skirts, &c. All are admitted to see for themselves.

The Lawrenceville Engine Lot

To be sold at auction on Thursday next at 4 o'clock P. M., is finely located; is forty feet front on Forty-first street, and extends back along Locust alley to Almond street, is only a short square from street cars, and is now occupied by the Lawrenceville Engine Company. Inquire of C. H. Love, Real Estate Broker, 121 Fourth avenue.

Silver Plated Ware.

Ice pitcher sets, tea sets, castors, forks and spoons, at R. E. Breed & Co.'s, 100 Wood street.

Forty-one Years Ago

One Thomas Mitchell, commenced the Stove Foundry business on Etna street, this city, and to-day the house he then founded, stands at the head and front rank of the business in Western Pennsylvania. The firm is now known as Mitchell, Stevenson & Co., and their place of business No. 194 Liberty street. The increasing demand for cooking and heating stoves, has caused this firm to get up many new improved styles, and to remodel the old ones, and they are offering at the present time the best heating and cooking stoves to be found in the West. To their large list of heating stoves they have lately introduced a new one called the Revolution. This stove is intended to burn Bituminous coal on the same principle as the anthracite coal is consumed. It is self-feeding, base-burning, base-heating, and gas-consuming, and will burn our soft coal equally as well as the best stove ever made to burn anthracite. Many attempts have been made to construct a stove that would burn our soft coal and act as a self-feeder, but they have all failed until the "Revolution" was brought out. The proprietors are so confident that it will do all that is claimed for it, that they will fully warrant it to give perfect satisfaction in every respect. We therefore ask our readers, who may need a heating stove for any purpose, to call at Messrs. Mitchell, Stevenson & Co.'s warehouse, at No. 194 Liberty street, and examine the Revolution.

Stoves.

The firm of Mitchell, Stevenson & Co., No. 194 Liberty street, manufacture some of the best stoves in use in this country, among which may be named their "Improved Dictator" and "Model Cook." The first of these is a practical, economical, durable and useful stove, so simple in its arrangement that any one can easily comprehend its construction and operation on the first inspection. It is also beautiful in design and outward appearance. The "Model Cook" is the finest finished, heaviest, most durable, best baker, and in all respects the most complete cooking stove manufactured or sold in Pittsburgh. The "Revolution" is a new self-feeding, base-burning, base-heating, gas-consuming parlor stove, in which bituminous coal can be burned with the most satisfactory results. The "Revolution" is the only stove of this kind adapted for the burning of soft coal, and all who have used it attest its complete success.

Workman & Davis's Superior Carriage Work.

As the result of a recent visit to the repository of Workman & Davis, Nos. 167, 169 and 171 Penn street, and their manufactory, Nos. 42, 44, 46 and 48 Arch street, Allegheny City, we can testify to the great success with which the firm are meeting in the manufacture and sale of vehicles. If any of our readers desire to buy a carriage, jagger wagon, barouche, pony phæton, open or top buggy, buck wagon, or any other description of vehicle we know of no similar establishment here or in the East where they can obtain better work for lower prices. Messrs. Workman & Davis are enterprising manufacturers and offer such liberal inducements to buyers that there can be no excuse for the use of an old or second-hand vehicle. The firm also attend to repairing vehicles of all kinds in a prompt and satisfactory manner.

A Warning.

The late disastrous failure of the Andes Insurance Company, of Cincinnati, should prove a warning to owners of property hereabouts against placing their risks in agency companies, concerning the management of whose affairs they know little or nothing. Our home companies appeal in unmistakable language to all who would insure when they invite the scrutiny of the general public. Such a company is the Ben Franklin, No. 16 West Ohio street, Allegheny, the Secretary of which, Mr. George D. Riddle, will impart the fullest information concerning the workings of the company, and satisfy all applicants of its entire soundness and thorough reliability. The officers of this company are men of integrity, occupying high positions in business circles, possessed of an abundance of capital and who conduct the affairs of the institution with judgment, foresight and prudence, thereby offering a sure guarantee to the policy holder that all losses incurred will be promptly met.

Auction Sale

Of a valuable lot on Forty-first street, one short square from Butler street, in the Seventeenth ward, on Thursday, the 26th inst., at 4 o'clock P. M. C. H. Love, Real Estate Broker, 121 Fourth avenue.

Indestructible.

There is no other word that can be so appropriately used to define the vast superiority of the trunks offered for sale by Mr. A. Tindle, Jr., No. 89 Smithfield street, Howard block, as the one we have chosen. They are made to last the owner a life-time, no matter whether his time is spent in constant travel or by the quiet fireside. They are admitted on all hands to be the best, as well as the cheapest trunks offered in the city, and if evidence were wanting to prove this, it would be abundantly found in the immense sales made by Mr. Tindle. Any of our readers in want of a trunk, valise, or satchel are advised to call at 89 Smithfield street and examine the assortment.

Remember

The auction sale of Lawrenceville Engine lot, on Forty-first street, near Butler street, Seventeenth ward, on Thursday, the 26th, at 4 o'clock P. M. Inquire of C. H. Love, Real Estate Broker, 121 Fourth avenue.

The Million.

This new cook stove, recently introduced by Messrs. John B. Herron & Co., No. 291 Liberty street, is meeting with a ready sale, which may be attributed to the fact that it entirely meets the wants of the million—the people generally. There are plenty of good cooking stoves offered, but the exorbitant prices at which they are held preclude the possibility of persons of limited means buying them. On the contrary the million is neat, finely finished, well made, durable and perfectly adapted to the requirements of the housekeeper, and yet it is sold at a price the reasonableness of which none can call in question.

Wagon Manufacturers.

The firm of C. Coleman & Son, Nos. 16, 17, 18 and 19 Marion avenue, Allegheny, have long maintained a leading position among our wagon manufacturers. So rapidly has the volume of their business increased that they recently found it necessary to enlarge their works to almost double their capacity, in order to keep pace with their orders. With their increased facilities they are now, however, fully prepared to meet the demand, and to furnish wagons of every description, carts and wheel-barrows, that for material, neatness and durability of construction are rarely equalled by the products of our best manufacturing establishments.

Grand Opening

The new store room on the corner of Fifth avenue and Market street will be ready for occupancy Friday, when Paul Hugus Hacke, the proprietor, will return to the premises and open with an entirely new stock of dry goods. This will be the finest retail dry goods store in town, and as Mr. Hacke possesses an enviable reputation for the superiority and style of his goods, our readers will do well to call and see the attractions that will be presented.

We Would Call the Attention

Of our readers to the advertisement in another column of a valuable lot at auction, corner of Forty-first street and Locust alley, in the Seventeenth ward, on Thursday next, at 4 o'clock P. M. Inquire of C. H. Love, Real Estate Broker, 121 Fourth avenue.

Fine Furniture.

Fine parlor and office furniture is a specialty at the house of Messrs. J. Meyer & Son, Nos. 412 and 414 Penn avenue, east of the railroad crossing. This firm have on exhibition some of the most ornate, elaborately finished and finely upholstered sets ever offered for sale in this city. They manufacture largely and are prepared to fit up banks, counting rooms, offices and private residences in any style desired. They keep a full supply of cotalines, brocatels and terrys, from which parties may make their selections and have sets upholstered to order. At the same time they keep a full supply of the best Eastern made furniture, which they are prepared to sell from twenty-five to fifty per cent. cheaper than prices prevailing on Broadway, New York. Messrs. Meyer & Son also keep a complete stock of the cheaper kinds of furniture, so that any article in the line can be procured from them.

Great Success at the Fairs.

Among the many improvements that are meeting with success is Cunningham & Bradley's Sash Adjuster and Lock, receiving first premiums and diplomas; is all the rage. Call and see it, at 73 Grant street.

Removal.

Paul Hugus Hacke will remove to his new store-room on the corner of Fifth avenue and Market street, on Friday. Upon that occasion will be opened an entirely new and very attractive assortment of imported and domestic dry goods. The storeroom is the finest in the city, the location is unsurpassed and the goods will be superior in quality, and sufficiently varied in character to meet the demand of all buyers.

AFFLICTED

Pause and consider whether it is better for your present trouble and future health to use the SAMARITAN'S GIFT, or be gorged with the quack's Balsam Copaiba, which drug is a sure tell-tale, having a horrid taste and still more disgusting smell. The grand and most important part of the Samaritan's Gift is its certainty of cure in the short time of from two to four days, besides being pleasant to take, having no smell or unpleasant taste and can be used without the knowedge of the most intimate acquaintance. The Gift is the only known remedy that can be depended on.

Male packages $2; female $3. Sent by mail to and address.

SALE
ON
West End Avenue,
NOW LOCATED.
On Friday, September 27th,
AT 2 O'CLOCK,
Will be sold on the premises, the beautiful property of Mr. William Dilworth, Jr., now divided into Lots of 1-4 TO 2 ACRES EACH,
Situated on the New Brighton Road, henceforth to be known as West End avenue, permanently located as such on Friday last. This is most delightful property, and sure to please any person of good taste and judgment. The five avenues which traverse through these grounds are most valuable to parties who intend building. Being already completed they are ready for immediate use, obviating the usual necessity of waiting for years for the introduction of good roads. Few places can present the same attractions in beauty of natural scenery. It is really a lovely spot, and should be visited by every person in quest of a charming rural home. So much variety prevails that all tastes can be gratified. Now that West End avenue is a fixed fact, the location will be more desirable in the future than even now. Is only two miles from the Allegheny Diamond and half a mile from terminus of Pleasant Valley Railway. If you have the remotest idea of purchasing a piece of ground come to this sale.
TERMS—One-fourth cash, balance in three years.

5 ACRE PLOTS
AT LEETSDALE,
AT AUCTION.
ALEX. M. WATSON, Esq., has divided his "Shields Farm," at Leetsdale, on the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway, into Plots, from 1 to 8 Acres each, and will be sold on the premises,
Monday, Sept. 30, at Noon.
Leetsdale is beautifully situated on the Ohio river, 14 miles by rail from Pittsburgh; is settled by a good community; possesses Churches, Schools, first rate Railway facilities, good Water, fine Views, and generally desirable for Residence. This sale will present an unexcelled opportunity to all persons who may wish to buy a few Acres. The present owner has held it for a long time, and can afford to sell for whatever price is offered. This is a rare chance. Embrace it. The grounds will please you. Take the 10:23 train from Federal street. Free Tickets both ways at the Depot, and Lunch on the premises.
TERMS—One fourth cash; balance in four yearly payments, with interest. Plans of

SECOND SALE
OF
ACRE LOTS, ON THE
GREEN TREE PROPERTY,
Perrysville Road.
The Second Sale of this Property will occur on Wednesday, Sept. 25, at 10 O'Clock.
There are over 20 Lots of an Acre each, as finely situated as any that were sold at the first sale. The projected improvements resulting from the first day's sale should stimulate future purchasers to secure a good footing in this advantageously situated property. Being right at the junction of the high and low roads to Perrysville, about three miles from the Market House, it enjoys the use of both roads, and commands some of the most lovely landscape views in the county.
The great interest manifested in the first sale is an earnest of the success of the second. Had time permitted, the entire property could have been disposed of on the first day. Intending buyers should therefore give good heed to this sale, which will likely be the last.
Recent sales on the Perrysville Road have shown the high appreciation the public entertain of property in this direction. The Perrysville is a fine driving road, and on completion of the undoubted extension and improvement of Federal street, will be all that pedestrians and equestrians could desire. Look to this sale; it will do you good. If you have any idea of an acre or two in the suburbs, here is your chance. No reserve prices. A free blow to the public. Now is your time.
TERMS—One-fourth cash; balance in three years. $100 on each Lot at sale. Plans of
A. LEGGATE, Auctioneer.

PREMIUM
AWARDED TO
City Pavement Co.
FOR PAVEMENT
1871

THE STOW
Foundation
Pavement,
Mechanics' Institute
Premium,
1871.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE
SAN FRANCISCO

Report of the Committee on Pavements, at the last Exhibition of the Mechanics' Institute, San Francisco, California, where the Stow Foundation Pavement was first introduced, and where it has been in used the past seven years.
"For general practical use and public benefit, we do not hesitate to pronounce the Stow Foundation Pavement, exhibited by the City Paving Company, together with the actual tests of its durability, as presented by the wear and tear in the streets of San Francisco, to be SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, when taking into consideration the method of laying it, the time it has been laid, the form of its construction, and by an honest comparison with others which have been submitted to the same test. WE AWARD IT THE FIRST PREMIUM."
Signed, EDWIN A. SHERMAN, JOHN V. HUNTER, Committee.

Stow Foundation Pavement!
The only Pavement that can be taken up and relaid without injury to the foundation. All Engineers, Builders, Gas and Water Companies and Plumbers, indorse this Pavement.
THE GREAT MERIT OF THE STOW PAVEMENT IS IN ITS SUPERIOR FOUNDATION,
Over all others, either of Wood or Stone, now in use.
It is a well known principle, in fact an AXIOM in Engineering, that where sand can be confined it is the best foundation that can be obtained. This principle—the confinement of sand—is perfectly and thoroughly secured in this pavement by the Wedges which are driven between and below the blocks into the sand, [see cut,] thus securely confining it and rendering lateral displacement, or compression by vertical pressure, totally impossible.
It is also incontrovertible, that where wood is kept uniformly wet, it will not decay. This pavement being laid directly on a sub-stratum of sand, and the surface made air and water-tight, the blocks receive and retain the moisture from beneath by capillary attraction and are uniformly wet, even in the driest weather; thus decay or dry rot cannot take place.
It is, when finished, a perfectly sectional pavement, each block sustaining the weight required, independent of the other.
It is so constructed that the different pieces do not become loose by use; but the longer the pavement is used the more substantial it becomes.
The gravel does not become loose, as in other pavements but will remain firm as long as the pavement will last.
A portion can be taken up and replaced without injury to the pavement. In taking it up for laying water or gas pipes, or for constructing sewers, there is no necessity of removing any more than what is required for the pipe or sewer, which can be replaced in as firm and substantial manner as the original pavement, at one-fourth the expense of any other wood pavement.
In San Francisco, where the pavement has been in use more than six years, at least nineteen-twentieths of all pavements put down in that city for the past four years have been of the "Stow Foundation," the property owners selecting it in preference to any other pavement. Address,
RICHARD S. ROBERTSON,
